Gulf of Mexico Origin, Waters, and Biota Darryl L. Felder, David K. Camp, 2009-06-29 This landmark scientific reference for scientists researchers and students of marine biology tackles the monumental task of taking a complete biodiversity inventory of the Gulf of Mexico with full biotic and biogeographic information Presenting a comprehensive summary of knowledge of Gulf biota through 2004 the book includes seventy seven chapters which list more than fifteen thousand species in thirty eight phyla or divisions and were written by 138 authors from seventy one institutions in fourteen countries This first volume of Gulf of Mexico Origin Waters and Biota a multivolumed set edited by John W Tunnell Jr Darryl L Felder and Sylvia A Earle provides information on each species habitat biology and geographic range along with full references and a narrative introduction to the group which opens each chapter      The Mollusks Charles F. Sturm, Timothy A. Pearce, Ángel Valdés, 2006 Mollusks have been important to humans since our earliest days Initially when humans were primarily interested in what they could eat or use mollusks were important as food ornaments and materials for tools Over the centuries as human knowledge branched out and individuals started to study the world around them mollusks were important subjects for learning how things worked In this volume the editors and contributors have brought together a broad range of topics within the field of malacology It is our expectation that these topics will be of interest and use to amateur and professional malacologists      Marine Biodiversity of Costa Rica, Central America Ingo S. Wehrtmann, Jorge

Cortés, 2008-12-28 Life began in the sea and even today most of the deep diversity of the planet is marine This is often forgotten especially in tropical countries like Costa Rica renowned for their rain forests and the multitude of life forms found therein Thus this book focusing on marine diversity of Costa Rica is particularly welcome How many marine species are there in Costa Rica The authors report a total of 6 777 species or 3 5% of the world s total Yet the vast majority of marine species have yet to be formally described Recent estimates of the numbers of species on coral reefs range from 1 9 million so that the true number of marine species in Costa Rica is certainly far higher In some groups the numbers are likely to be vastly higher because to date they have been so little studied Only one species of nematode is reported despite the fact that it has been said that nematodes are the most diverse of all marine groups In better studied groups such as mollusks and crustaceans reported numbers are in the thousands but even in these groups many species remain to be described. Indeed the task of describing marine species is daunting if there really are about 9 million marine species and Costa Rica has 3.5% of them then the total number would be over 300,000. Clearly so much remains to be done that new approaches are needed. Genetic methods have enormous promise in this regard.

An Annotated Checklist of the Marine Macroinvertebrates of Alaska
David Thomas Drumm, Katherine P. Maslenikov, Robert Van Syoc, James Wilder Orr, Robert Russell Lauth, Duane E. Stevenson, Theodore W. Pietsch, 2016. A current and comprehensive species list of marine invertebrates of Alaska is essential for effective management of living marine resources, sustainable fisheries, conservation of vulnerable ecosystems, and advancement of our knowledge of biodiversity and ecosystem function. Furthermore, the most current checklist available to resource managers and scientists is quite dated and limited in that it only includes the marine invertebrates of the southern coast of Alaska to California. Since that checklist was published, many new species have been described, many range extensions have been discovered, and considerable changes in higher level systematics have been made. The checklist that we have compiled lists 3,708 species and presents for each species the currently accepted scientific name and its significant synonyms, common names, type localities, geographic and depth distributions, a general statement of abundance in Alaska when known (e.g., rare, uncommon, common, abundant), and general remarks. It includes species recorded in the marine waters of Alaska from the intertidal zone, continental shelf, and upper continental slope to abyssal depths from the Beaufort Sea at the Arctic border with Yukon, Canada, the eastern Chukchi Sea, the eastern Bering Sea, the Aleutian Islands to the western border with Russia and the Gulf of Alaska to Dixon Entrance at the southern border with British Columbia. Sound and reliable taxonomic identifications are necessary to monitor and predict changes in the distribution and abundance of marine species. The current status and future direction of the study of Alaskan marine invertebrate biodiversity are briefly discussed.

Living Chitons of the Mediterranean Bruno Dell'Angelo, Carlo Smriglio, 2001. Phylogeny and Evolution of the Mollusca Winston Ponder, David R. Lindberg, 2008-03-25. Ponder and Lindberg provides a breathtaking overview of the evolutionary history of the Mollusca, effectively melding information from anatomy, ecology, genomics, and paleobiology to explore the depths of molluscan phylogeny. Its outstanding success is due to thoughtful planning, focused, complementary contributions from 36 expert authors, and careful editing. This volume is a must for malacologists. Bruce Runneger, Department of Earth and Space Sciences, University of California, Los Angeles. Our understanding of the phylogeny and evolutionary history of the mollusca has been revolutionized over the past two decades through new molecular data and analysis and reinvestigation of morphological characters. In this volume, Ponder, Lindberg, and their colleagues do a wonderful job of integrating this work to provide new perspectives on the relationships of the major molluscan clades, their evolutionary dynamics, and their history. Particularly timely is the coverage of molluscan evo devo and genomics. Douglas H. Erwin, Curator of Paleozoic Invertebrates, National Museum of Natural History.
