Menzies. [With Illustrations.].* Constance M. Greiff, 1967 Architecture and Town Planning in Colonial North America James D. Kornwolf, Georgiana Wallis Kornwolf, 2002 Incorporating more than 3 000 illustrations Kornwolf's work conveys the full range of the colonial encounter with the continent's geography from the high forms of architecture through formal landscape design and town planning From these pages emerge the fine arts of environmental design an understanding of the political and economic events that helped to determine settlement in North America an appreciation of the various architectural and landscape forms that the settlers created and an awareness of the diversity of the continent's geography and its peoples Considering the humblest buildings along with the mansions of the wealthy and powerful public buildings forts and churches Kornwolf captures the true dynamism and diversity of colonial communities their rivalries and frictions their outlooks and attitudes as they extended their hold on the land The Making of Princeton University James Axtell, 2021-03-09 In 1902 Professor Woodrow Wilson took the helm of Princeton University then a small denominational college with few academic pretensions But Wilson had a blueprint for remaking the too cozy college into an intellectual powerhouse The Making of Princeton University tells for the first time the story of how the University adapted and updated Wilson's vision to transform itself into the prestigious institution it is today James Axtell brings the methods and insights from his extensive work in ethnohistory to the collegiate realm focusing especially on one of Princeton's most distinguished features its unrivaled reputation for undergraduate education Addressing admissions the curriculum extracurricular activities and the changing landscape of student culture the book devotes four full chapters to undergraduate life inside and outside the classroom The book is a livelywarts and all rendering of Princeton's rise addressing such themes as discriminatory admission policies the academic underperformance of many varsity athletes and the controversial bicker system through which students have been selected for the University's private eating clubs Written in a delightful and elegant style The Making of Princeton University offers a detailed picture of how the University has dealt with these issues to secure a distinguished position in both higher education and American society For anyone interested in or associated with Princeton past or present this is a book to savor

The Educational Legacy of Woodrow Wilson James Axtell, 2012 In The Educational Legacy of Woodrow Wilson James Axtell brings together essays by eight leading historians and one historically minded political scientist to examine the long formative academic phase of Wilson's career and its connection to his relatively brief tenure in politics Together the essays provide a greatly revised picture of Wilson's whole career and a deeply nuanced understanding of the evolution of his educational political and social philosophy and policies the ordering of his values and priorities and the seamless link between his academic and political lives The contributors shed light on Wilson's unexpected rise to the governorship of New Jersey and the presidency and how he prepared for elective office through his long study of government and the practice of academic politics which he deemed no less fierce than that of Washington In both spheres he was enormously successful propelling a string of progressive reforms through faculty and legislative forums Only after he was beset by health problems and events beyond his control did he fail to push his academic and postwar agendas to their logical idealistic conclusions Contributors James Axtell College of William and Mary Victoria Bissell Brown Grinnell College John Milton Cooper Jr University of Wisconsin Stanley N Katz Princeton University W Bruce Leslie SUNY Brockport Adam R Nelson University of Wisconsin Mark R Nemec Forrester Research John R Thelin University of Kentucky Trygve Throntveit Harvard University
