Reflecting Realities Anastacio, Jean, 2000-07-21 Reflecting realities explores participants perspectives on participation structures capacity building and the technical and professional support available and systems for monitoring and evaluating regeneration programmes The report includes recommendations for national and regional government local authorities and community organisations Urban Regeneration, Community Power and the (In)Significance of 'Race' Paul J. Maginn, 2017-11-30 The concepts of community consultation and participation have come to dominate academic and policy debate about urban regeneration partnerships However there has been relatively little discussion about the nature of community power within regeneration partnerships Adopting an ethnographic approach in the study of community participation and power and the significance of race in three ethnically diverse neighbourhoods in London this book highlights that there has been a pluralistic turn in British urban regeneration policy Local communities often portrayed as the least powerful partner within partnerships are shown to use various strategies to influence decision making thus giving rise to a new typology of pluralism pragmatic hyper and paternalistic Furthermore the significance of race and racism within community forums and regeneration partnerships is challenged The playful use of the term In Significance in the title is linked to the argument that although racism exists race does not always matter The well-connected community Gilchrist, Alison, 2009-07-22 Since the publication of the first edition of The well connected community there has been a growing recognition in practice and policy of how networks contribute to the vitality of community life and civil society Government policy has increasingly emphasised the need to involve communities in decision making while social capital is increasingly associated with health low levels of crime educational achievement and a strong sense of community The well connected community aims to strengthen and extend informal networks support partnership working across boundaries and promote social cohesion It explores the concept of community in relation to patterns of interaction social identity and mutual influence advocating a new model of community development that promotes networking as a skilled and strategic intervention and providing recommendations for good networking practice This fully updated second edition includes new ideas drawn from recent research on social capital and the policy context for community practice reflecting the increasing emphasis on community engagement and empowerment Recent case studies and examples have been added throughout The well connected community is aimed at practitioners trainers policy makers and managers working with communities or responsible for community participation strategies both in the UK and internationally Academics will also find it a useful source for teaching and research The Well-Connected Community Alison Gilchrist, 2019-09-18 There is growing recognition in practice and policy of how networking contributes to the vitality and cohesion of community life and civil society The Well Connected Community provides theoretical insights and practical guidance for people working with and for communities This updated edition takes account of the changing political and economic context including rising social inequalities and community tensions It considers new approaches to well being such as social prescribing and the use of social media for local and global organising This model of community development explains and promotes networking as a skilled and strategic intervention and provides recommendations for good practice DIY Community Action Liz

Richardson,2008-03-12 How people can be persuaded to take more control of their own lives continues to be a subject of policy and academic debate and the contribution of active citizens to improving societal well being is high across different policy agendas But the promotion of community self help raises a wide range of questions for people working in neighbourhoods for policy makers for politicians and for residents themselves about how we promote engagement what would motivate people to become active and more fundamentally about the ongoing relevance and value of community activity DIY Community Action offers thought provoking answers to these questions based on detailed real life evidence from over 100 community groups each trying to combat neighbourhood problems It presents a lively challenge to the existing thinking on contested debates and proposes ways forward for community building This timely publication is an engaging resource for policy makers practitioners academics students and general readers interested in exploring community engagement and active citizenship Its insightful analysis will be of interest to students of social policy sociology community work housing and regeneration local government studies and public policy Community Resilience Katy

Wright,2021-11-29 This book provides an alternative perspective on community resilience drawing on critical sociological and social policy insights about how people individually and collectively cope with different kinds of adversity Based on the idea that resilience is more than simply an invention of neoliberal governments this book explores diverse expressions of resilience and considers what supports and undermines people s resilience in different contexts Focusing on the United Kingdom it examines the contradictions and limitations of neoliberal resilience policies and the role of policy in shaping how vulnerabilities are distributed and how resilience is manifested The book explores different types of resilience including planning response recovery adaptation and transformation which are examined in relation to different types of threat such as financial hardship disasters and climate change It argues that resilience cannot act as an antidote to vulnerability and aims to demonstrate the importance of shared institutions in underpinning resilience and in preventing socially created vulnerabilities It will be of interest to academics students and well informed practitioners working with the concept of resilience within the subject areas of Sociology Social Policy Human Geography Environmental Humanities and International Development New Practitioners in the Future Health Service Liz Kendall,Rachel Lissauer,2002 Local Economic and

Regeneration in the 21st Century Michael Carley,2000 Decades of regeneration activity have not halted the decline in prosperity and the social exclusion of sections of British society Starting in 1996 the Joseph Rowntree Foundation took action to assess the nature of this activity to discover what works and what does not and to search out examples of good practice Its Area Regeneration Programme covered every aspect of regeneration policy and practice from the national to the neighbourhood level from labour market analysis to community development Regeneration in the 21st century summarises the findings of the programme which include over 60 research studies It provides an overview of knowledge to date and identifies the key challenges that we face in the 21st century Analysed by specialists in each field the report considers the impact of geography and reputation on area disadvantage why community involvement is vital and how it can be implemented the effect of joblessness on regeneration and how it can be mitigated why and how some partnerships succeed the need for integration including between top down bottom up and national local initiatives
