Reflecting Team Dialogues And Dialogues About The Dialogues:

The Reflecting Team Tom Andersen, Arlene Michele Katz, 1991 What happens when the barriers between therapists and clients are removed when they all participate in a dialogue about change and when therapists and clients even trade places As Lynn Hoffman says in her forward to this remarkable book it dramatically alters a family's position in relation to the professionals they have come to see In the process it changes the roles rules and expectations of therapy Furthering Talk Thomas Strong, David Pare, 2012-12-06 Recently a client coming in for her second appointment told me the story of how she had been volunteering her time for the past several years to free several innocent prisoners from Illinois prisons She told me how tenaciously and persistently she had to work against politicians who did not want these releases to take place I was so struck by her dedication and personal sacrifice of time money and energy At the end of her story I thanked her I said there were many times when I heard some story of injustice on the news and I thought to myself how I should get involved or at least write a letter But somehow other matters would take precedence my anger would dissipate and soon the issue would slip my mind Listening to her I felt grateful that there were people like her to take up the cause and put energy and voice to my concerns I looked at her and thanked her again Reading this manuscript I was reminded of this story Editing a book on postmodern thinking and ways of being with clients is certainly not the same as confronting politicians or taking on power structures in a justice system But nonetheless after reading this manuscript I found myself grateful to Tom Strong and David Pare for their taking the time and committing the energy to the collection This is a book that should have been written It is timely and moves ideas forward This is a very worthwhile endeavor and the product reflects their dedication to contemporary ideas

Social Morphogenesis Margaret S. Archer, 2013-02-20 The rate of social change has speeded up in the last three decades but how do we explain this This volume ventures what the generative mechanism is that produces such rapid change and discusses how this differs from late Modernity Contributors examine if an intensification of morphogenesis positive feedback that results in a change in social form and a corresponding reduction in morphostasis negative feedback that restores or reproduces the form of the social order best captures the process involved This volume resists proclaiming a new social formation as so many books written by empiricists have done by extrapolating from empirical data Until we can convincingly demonstrate that a new generative mechanism is at work it is premature to argue what accounts for the global changes that are taking place and where they will lead More concisely we seek to answer the question whether or not current social change can be regarded as social morphogenesis Only then in the next volumes will the same team of authors be able to remove the question mark
