Inquiry and Reflection Diane DuBose Brunner,1994-03-31 Inquiry and Reflection shows how stories of schooling can elucidate difficult and unexamined problems facing teachers While professional texts tend to raise issues of power and its distribution and questions of culture and ideology often the manner of presentation is abstract and pre service teachers have difficulty making connections Yet literary film and video materials illuminate problems and suggest ideas to which teachers can actively respond This book offers teacher educators a variety of resources for articulating a critical pedagogy and suggests an alternative to the technical job training approach to teacher education by providing a unique educational curricula that illuminates issues of power ideology and culture      Doing Academic Writing in Education Janet C. Richards, Sharon K. Miller, 2006-04-21 Guides educators who are or will be engaged in a variety of academic writing tasks through the writing process with emphasis on connecting professional writing and the personal self      Writing Life Writing Paul Eakin, 2020-07-02 Why do we endlessly tell the stories of our lives And why do others pay attention when we do The essays collected here address these questions focusing on three different but interrelated dimensions of life writing The first section Narrative argues that narrative is not only a literary form but also a social and cultural practice and finally a mode of cognition and an expression of our most basic physiology The next section Life Writing Historical Forms makes the case for the historical value of the subjectivity recorded in ego documents The essays in the final section Autobiography Now identify primary motives for engaging in self narration in an age characterized by digital media and quantum cosmology      Celebrating Writers Ruth Ayres, 2023-10-10 Writing begins before students even pick up a pencil but there are many reasons to stop and rejoice between the idea and the finished project By helping students celebrate each stage of the writing process and applauding success we help our students persevere through what can be an extended and challenging process In their innovative new book Celebrating Writers Ruth Ayres and Christi Overman discuss dozens of ways to respond reflect and rejoice along the journey to a finished project This type of celebration nurtures students makes them better writers and helps them recognize that writing is a process filled with notable moments not simply a result where publication is the only marker of success From traveling notebooks to lunch table writing from author interviews with a writing partner to silent reflection from swapping stories around a campfire to tweeting favorite lines Ruth and Christi share dozens of fun and effective ways for you and your students to commemorate their progress as writers As the authors write It s time to expand the idea of celebration to include the process of writers and the products they create Let s build an approach that weaves celebration into the heart of all writers Be ready to learn to refuel the writers in your classroom even on the tough days      Conceptualising Reflection In Teacher Development James Calderhead, Peter Gates, 2003-09-02 Reflection has become widely recognised as a crucial element in the professional growth of teachers Terms such as reflective teaching enquiry orientated teacher education teachers as researchers and reflective practitioner have become quite prolific in discussions of classroom practice and professional development It is frequently presumed that reflection is an intrinsically good and desirable aspect of teaching and teacher education and that teachers in becoming more reflective will in some sense be better teachers though such claims have been rarely subject to detailed scrutiny Each of the chapters in this book is concerned with exploring the concept of reflection and considering its contributions to teacher education The papers range across different stages of professional development some focusing in particular on pre service education others on in service or professional development generally Some of the papers are concerned with particular strategies for promoting reflection and how they might operate in a teacher education context others dwell more upon a theoretical appreciation of how reflection facilitates in the processes of professional development and how it relates to issues of quality in teacher education
