An Opportunity for a Different Peru Marcelo Giugale,Vicente Fretes Cibils,2007 For the first time in the republican history of Peru the presidential transition takes place in democracy social peace fast economic growth and favorable world markets In other words there has never been a better chance to build a different Peru a richer country more equal and governable There are multiple ways to achieve that goal New reforms must stem from a widespread and participatory debate one of a common vision conceived for and by Peruvians This book aims at making a technical and independent contribution to such debate it summarizes the knowledge available about the challenges to be faced by the new administration The study does not recommend silver bullets but suggests policy options It is based on the analysis of the current reality and in six decades of relationships with Peru in which the Bank has implemented more than 100 projects and prepared more than 500 technical reports covering the wide range of development topics When necessary the study provides lessons that the Bank has learned elsewhere The study provides a conceptual framework to the analysis of the country's 34 economic sectors and the two historical perspectives behind them In doing so it offers a comprehensive reform agenda that sheds light on possible priorities and courses of action

The Economic and Social Impact of Privatisation of State-owned Enterprises in Africa I. Obadan, 2008-03-15 The case for privatization whether defined in a broad or narrow sense has been forcefully made by its advocates against the backdrop of the much advertised poor performances of state owned enterprises SOEs and theoretical arguments relating to the efficiency of private firms over public enterprises Consequently privatization and commercialization have been key components of the structural adjustment programmes foisted by the Bretton Woods institutions on Third World countries Yet the empirical findings on privatization especially outside Africa where they exist do not portray the strategy to be a panacea that works in all circumstances in all branches of economic activity In spite of this since the late 1980s privatization has been stepped up in almost all African countries And after about two decades of vigorous implementation of privatization programmes in Africa there is a compelling need for a comprehensive and systematic analysis of various privatization issues particularly the economic and social impact This book thus establishes a clear case for a comprehensive and systematic analysis of the impact of privatization in Africa Specifically the book provides a state of the art review of privatization issues and research questions as a prelude to an in depth study of the economic and social impact of privatization In the light of the rich insights brought to bear on the issues this book should stimulate the interest of researchers donors and policy makers to undertake or support the follow up in depth research envisaged

Price Structure and Network Externalities in the Telecommunications Industry Atsushi Iimi, 2007 Many developing countries have experienced significant developments in their telecommunications network Countries in Africa are no exception to this The paper examines what factor facilitates most network expansion using micro data from 45 fixed line and mobile telephone operators in 18 African countries In theory the telecommunications sector has two sector specific characteristics network externalities and discriminatory pricing It finds that many telephone operators in the region use peak and off peak prices and termination based price discrimination but are less likely to rely on strategic fee schedules such as tie in arrangements The estimated demand function based on a discrete consumer choice model indicates that termination based discriminatory pricing can facilitate network expansion. It also shows that the implied price cost margins are significantly high. Thus, price liberalization could be conducive to development of the telecommunications network led by the private sector. Some countries in Africa are still imposing certain price restrictions. But more important, it remains a policy issue how the authorities should ensure reciprocal access between operators at reasonable cost.
