Promoting Health and Well-being in Social Work Education Beth R. Crisp,Liz Beddoe,2013-10-18 Social work educators can play an important part in ensuring that the promotion of health and well being is firmly on the social work agenda for service users as well as for students and educators Nevertheless this has not been a priority within social work education and presents a challenge which requires some re thinking in terms of curriculum content pedagogy and how social workers respond to social problems Furthermore if the promotion of health and well being is not considered a priority for social workers this raises important questions about the role and relevance of social work in health and thus poses challenges to social work education both now and in the future This book contains contributions from social work educators from Australia America Canada New Zealand and the UK They reflect on how best to prepare students to put health and well being to the forefront of practice drawing on research on quality of life subjective well being student well being community participation and social connectedness religion and spirituality mindful practices trauma and health inequalities This book is an extended version of a special issue of Social Work Education Negotiating Death in Contemporary Health and Social Care Margaret Holloway,2007-10-17 This book brings together perspectives from social science health care and pastoral theology looking at the way death is handled in contemporary society and the sensitive ethical and practical dilemmas facing nurses social workers doctors and chaplains
