Map History Of The Ancient World:

Atlas of the Geography and History of the Ancient World John King Lord, 1902 Ancient Perspectives Richard J. A. Talbert, 2014-02-14 Ancient Perspectives encompasses a vast arc of space and time Western Asia to North Africa and Europe from the third millennium BCE to the fifth century CE to explore mapmaking and worldviews in the ancient civilizations of Mesopotamia Egypt Greece and Rome In each society maps served as critical economic political and personal tools but there was little consistency in how and why they were made Much like today maps in antiquity meant very different things to different people Ancient Perspectives presents an ambitious fresh overview of cartography and its uses The seven chapters range from broad based analyses of mapping in Mesopotamia and Egypt to a close focus on Ptolemy's ideas for drawing a world map based on the theories of his Greek predecessors at Alexandria The remarkable accuracy of Mesopotamian city plans is revealed as is the creation of maps by Romans to support the proud claim that their emperor's rule was global in its reach By probing the instruments and techniques of both Greek and Roman surveyors one chapter seeks to uncover how their extraordinary planning of roads aqueducts and tunnels was achieved Even though none of these civilizations devised the means to measure time or distance with precision they still conceptualized their surroundings natural and man made near and far and felt the urge to record them by inventive means that this absorbing volume reinterprets and compares Australian national bibliography, 1961 A History of the Ancient World George Willis Botsford, 1911 A History of the World in 12 Maps Jerry Brotton, 2013-11-14 A New York Times Bestseller Maps allow the armchair traveler to roam the world the diplomat to argue his points the ruler to administer his country the warrior to plan his campaigns and the propagandist to boost his cause rich and beautiful Wall Street Journal Throughout history maps have been fundamental in shaping our view of the world and our place in it But far from being purely scientific objects maps of the world are unavoidably ideological and subjective intimately bound up with the systems of power and authority of particular times and places Mapmakers do not simply represent the world they construct it out of the ideas of their age In this scintillating book Jerry Brotton examines the significance of 12 maps from the almost mystical representations of ancient history to the satellite derived imagery of today He vividly recreates the environments and circumstances in which each of the maps was made showing how each conveys a highly individual view of the world Brotton shows how each of his maps both influenced and reflected contemporary events and how by considering it in all its nuances and omissions we can better understand the world that produced it Although the way we map our surroundings is more precise than ever before Brotton argues that maps today are no more definitive or objective than they have ever been Readers of this beautifully illustrated and masterfully argued book will never look at a map in quite the same way again A fascinating and panoramic new history of the cartographer's art The Guardian The intellectual background to these images is conveyed with beguiling erudition There is nothing more subversive than a map The Spectator A mesmerizing and beautifully illustrated book The Telegraph A

History of the World in Twelve Maps Jerry Brotton, 2012-09-06 Fascinating panoramic wonderful Tom Holland A magical book which explores how the world was seen at twelve points in history through twelve extraordinary maps and the minds of those who made them What you see depends on where and when you are looking from As Jerry Brotton's enthralling book shows maps have shaped our view of the world throughout history and are themselves shaped by the ideas prejudices systems of power and creativity of their age Brotton examines twelve world maps from global history from the mystical representations of ancient civilizations and the fourteenth century Mappamundi to the satellite derived imagery of today to show how by reading them we can better understand the worlds that produced them You will not look at a map in quite the same way again The intellectual background to these images is conveyed with beguiling erudition maps prove to be less conveyors of information than theatrical performances There is nothing more subversive than a map Andrew Linklater Spectator Fascinating and thought provoking An achievement of evocation Anthony Sattin Literary Review Elegant powerfully argued David Horspool Guardian Books of the Year Rich and adventurous John Carey Sunday Times A highly rewarding study you will emerge with a detailed insight into how maps reflect expose and manipulate the societies in which they are made Simon Garfield Mail on Sunday
