Muslims In Western Europe:

Muslims in Western Europe Jørgen S. Nielsen, 1995 Nielsen describes the history of early European Muslims and outlines the causes and courses of twentieth century Muslim immigration Explaining how Muslim communities have developed in individual countries the book examines their origins their present day ethnic composition organizational patterns and the political legal and cultural contexts in which they exist The book also provides a comparative consideration of issues common to Muslims in all Western European countries namely the role of the family and questions of worship education and religious thought In the third edition all country related chapters have been substantially updated A new chapter has also been added on southern Europe where the maturity of a new generation has seen moves toward political integration Muslim Communities in the New Europe Gerd Nonneman, Tim Niblock, Bogdan Szajkowski, 1996 This text examines the evolving fate of Europe's Muslims comparing the status role and perceptions of these communities across Europe and Western Europe following the demise of communist authoritarianism Muslims in Western Europe Jonas Otterbeck, 2015-11-12 A useful introduction to the social political cultural and religious position of Muslims living in contemporary Europe It describes the history of early European Muslims and outlines the causes and courses of twentieth century Muslim immigration Western Europe and Its Islam Jan Rath, 2001 Immigration from North Africa Asia and elsewhere meant a large influx of Islam into Western Europe In each country Muslims organized in various ways and established numerous institutions such as mosques cemeteries halal butchers schools broadcasting organizations and political parties and slowly but surely the outlines of Muslim communities begun to emerge The development of those communities is not a matter of Muslims only but the product of their interaction with the wider environment The development of the process of institutionalization is the result of their consultations and conflicts with parties involved particularly with agents from the host society As Muslim immigrants become ever more a part of Western European societies the establishment of their institutions both illustrates and affects the processes of sociological political and legal change that are currently taking place This book based on interdisciplinary research examines the establishment of Muslim institutions in Western Europe and particularly focuses on the role played by agents from the host society and the political and ideological positions adopted by them in reaction to claims from Muslims

Muslims in Western Europe Jonas Otterbeck, 2015-12-31 A useful introduction to the social political cultural and religious position of Muslims living in contemporary Europe It describes the history of early European Muslims and outlines the causes and courses of twentieth century Muslim immigration The Islamic Challenge Jytte Klausen, 2005-10-27 The voices in this book belong to legislators local officials doctors and engineers educators and intellectuals lawyers and social workers owners of small businesses translators and community activists They are also all Muslims who have decided to become engaged in political and civic organizations And for that reason they constantly have to explain themselves mostly in order to say who they are not They are not fundamentalists not terrorists and most do not support the introduction of Islamic religious law in Europe especially not its application to Christians This book is about who these people are and what they want This book is based on three hundred interviews with European Muslim leaders from six European countries Sweden Denmark the Netherlands Great Britain France and Germany The question of Islam in Europe is not a matter of global war and peace but raises difficult questions about the positions of Christianity and Islam in public life and about European identities There is not one Muslim position on how Islam should develop in Europe but many views and most Muslims are rather looking for ways to build institutions that will allow European Muslims to practice their religion in a way that is compatible with social integration

Religious Freedom and the Position of Islam in Western Europe W. A. R. Shadid, P. Sj. van Koningsveld, 1995 The permanent presence of Islam and Muslims approximately 7 million is a comparatively recent phenomenon in most countries of the European Community By far the greater majority of them consists of former inhabitants of the Muslim world who migrated to the West for economic or political reasons after the Second World War Over the last decades many initiatives have been launched by Muslim communities to create infrastructural provisions for their religious life within the existing legal and social frameworks In fact all countries of the European Community share the principles of religious freedom and non discrimination in their respective Constitutions However the precise way in which these principles are interpreted and applied to Islam depends largely on the historical traditions concerning the relations between State and Religion which differ from one country to another The present book is mainly based on the numerous articles and books concerning the public status of Islam in the various countries of Western Europe which were published between 1987 and 1994 First of all a comparative study is offered of the relation between State and Religion according to the constitutional traditions of the member states of the European Community Secondly the authors discuss the opportunities and obstacles in the realization of an organizational structure by the Muslim communities Attention is paid among others to the foundation of mosques the position of imams and the attempts to create representative bodies on the national level which can serve as negotiating partners with the national governments In a separate chapter attention is paid to Islam as a minority religion from a theoretical point of view Then follows a discussion of the possibilities for the observance of Islamic customs and rituals such as religious holidays dietary laws and dress rules With regard to Islamic religious education attention is paid in the last chapter to religious education within mosques public Christian and Islamic schools At the end there is an extensive bibliography with an index of subjects and countries

Muslims and Western Europe in the Modern Era Sarah Hackett, Iftikhar Malik, 2018 Muslims and Western Europe in the Modern Era is a groundbreaking contribution to the historical study of Islam and Muslim minorities in Western Europe It frames recent and ongoing events and political academic and popular deliberations within their often neglected historical contexts demonstrating the manner in which history can inform and further our understanding of contemporary debates Written by an international group of experts the 12 country case studies included in the volume all draw upon different themes experiences and chronological scopes as well as political economic social cultural and religious factors By providing an overview of the historiography as well as engaging with recent scholarship and debate the introduction offers a context for the chapters that follow The book s varied methodologies also inject an interdisciplinarity into the overarching historical framework that provides an in depth and comprehensive account of Islam and Muslim life in individual countries as well as on a Western European scale Offering essential historical insight into one of the most pressing and contentious debates of our time this book is vital reading for any student examining the history of Islam multiculturalism and religion in modern Europe

Islam in Europe Robert J. Pauly, Jr., 2016-05-06 In this timely work Robert J Pauly Jr looks in detail at the impact of Islam s presence in Europe He examines five areas of particular importance the effect of the growth of Muslim communities on the demographics of Western Europe generally and France Germany and the United Kingdom in particular the consequences of the marginalization of Muslims on domestic and international security within and outside of Western Europe in the post 11 September 2001 era the impact of the issue of Islam in Europe on the European Union s ongoing deepening and widening processes the potential correlation between the increased visibility of Islam in Europe and the growth of far right political parties across the continent and the broader relationships between the issues of Islam in Europe Islam and Europe and Islam and the West

Muslims in the Enlarged Europe Brigitte Marechal, Stefano Allievi, Felice Dassetto, Jørgen Nielsen, 2003-09-01 This volume describes the main characteristics of contemporary European Islam Following an outline of the historical background and some statistics related to the presence of Islam in Europe the process of growth the development of Islam is analysed through religious instruction in educational systems organisational structures and the forms of political participation by Muslims In addition to a description of the relationship between European states and Islam in judicial terms the different types of the inclusion integration of Islam in European society is studied by looking at the media the relations between religions economic and international dimensions and the manner in which views have changed following the events of September 11 Based on extensive bibliographical research field studies and specific contributions of scholars this book provides a rare and useful overall review for a wide public Muslims in the Enlarged Europe has been selected by Choice as Outstanding Academic Title 2005

Muslims of Europe H. A. Hellyer, 2009-09-30 The interchange between Muslims and Europe has a long and complicated history dating back to before the idea of Europe was born and the earliest years of Islam There has been a Muslim presence on the European continent before but never has it been so significant particularly in Western Europe With more Muslims in Europe than in many countries of the Muslim world they have found themselves in the position of challenging what it means to be a European in a secular society of the 21st century At the same time the European context has caused many Muslims to re think what is essential to them in religious terms in their new reality In this work H A Hellyer analyses the prospects for a European future where pluralism is accepted within unified societies and the presence of a Muslim community that is of Europe not simply in it

and Hinduism in Western Europe W. A. R. Shadid, P. Sj. van Koningsveld, 1991 Muslims in the Margin W. A. R. Shadid, P. Sj. van Koningsveld, 1996 The involvement of minorities in politics has been the subject of a considerable number of studies. However, these studies are rarely concerned with the political role in Western Europe of both Islam as a mobilising factor and the Muslims as a religious group comparable with other confessional groups creating political parties. The importance of political participation of Muslims for the improvement of their social, economic and cultural position as well as for the establishing of religious infrastructure has been widely recognized by politicians and scientists alike. As relative newcomers in Western Europe, most Muslims still occupy a marginal position which makes their active political participation all the more urgent. Over the last decades, initiatives have been taken in several countries to create Islamic political parties. At the same time, in most countries of Western Europe, the established political parties are nominating members with an Islamic background among their candidates. Furthermore, many discussions have taken place about the feasibility of the integration of Islam within the European social and political systems. Cabinet ministers and established political parties have developed views about the nature of Islam which are being crystalized in the policies of the national governments. Central issues in these discussions are, for instance, the compatibility of Islam and parliamentary democracy and human rights, the fear of religious fundamentalism and fanaticism as well as the oppression of women by Islam. The present book contains fourteen contributions by specialists from various European countries. Muslims in Europe Paul Statham, Jean Tillie, 2018-10-18 Atrocities by terrorists acting in the name of the Islamic State are occurring with increasing regularity across Western Europe. Often the perpetrators are home grown, which places the relationship between Muslims and the countries in which they live under intense political and media scrutiny and raises questions about the success of the integration of Muslims of migrant origin. At the same time, populist politicians try to shift the blame from the few perpetrators to the supposed characteristics of all Muslims as a group by depicting Islam as a threat that seeks to undermine liberal democratic values and institutions. The research in this volume attempts to redress the balance by focusing on the views and life experiences of the many ordinary Muslims in their European societies of settlement and the role that cultural and religious factors play in shaping their social relationships with majority populations and public institutions. The book is specifically interested in the relationship between cultural, religious distance and social factors that shape the life chances of Muslims relative to the majority. The study is cross-national comparative across the six main receiving countries with distinct approaches to the accommodation of Muslims: France, Germany, Britain, the Netherlands, Belgium and Switzerland. The research is based on the findings of a survey of four groups of Muslims from distinct countries of origin: Turkey, Morocco, the former Yugoslavia and Pakistan, as well as majority populations in each of the receiving countries. This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies. Radicalization in Western Europe Carolin Görzig, Khaled Al-Hashimi, 2014-09-15 Employing a theoretical framework based on the concept of identity loss, this book seeks to understand why increased integration has stimulated greater radicalization among the Muslim populations in Western Europe Through extensive field research in four European countries the UK the Netherlands Germany and France the authors investigate three key questions 1 Why are 2nd and 3rd generations of Muslims in Europe more radical than their parents 2 Why does Europe experience more home grown terrorism today than thirty or forty years ago 3 Why do some European countries feature more radical Muslim communities than others The book reveals that these three puzzling questions can be solved when analyzing the loss of individuality in the face of integration and identification with European society While Individualist and structural approaches fail to explain radicalization of Muslims in Europe this study by framing radicalization through coupling the public discourse with identity loss provides a much needed insight into the process of radicalization Explaining radicalization and gaining an understanding of the drivers of radicalization is crucial to prevent and mitigate intercultural alienation to further develop immigration policies redress integration failures as well as to avoid dangerous oversimplifications This book contributes not only to understanding why greater integration is matched by increasing radicalization but its insights also contribute to developing ideas about how radicalization can be prevented or overcome and integration policies can be enhanced This book will be of much interest to students of terrorism and counter terrorism radical Islam war and conflict studies European politics IR and security studies Muslims in the West Yvonne Yazbeck Haddad, 2002-04-11 Today Muslims are the second largest religious group in much of Europe and North America The essays in this collection look both at the impact of the growing Muslim population on Western societies and how Muslims are adapting to life in the West Part I looks at the Muslim diaspora in Europe comprising essays on Britain France Germany Switzerland Norway Sweden Denmark Italy and the Netherlands Part II turns to the Western Hemisphere and Muslims in the U S Canada and Mexico Throughout the authors contend with such questions as Can Muslims retain their faith and identity and at the same time accept and function within the secular and pluralistic traditions of Europe and America What are the limits of Western pluralism Will Muslims come to be fully accepted as fellow citizens with equal rights An excellent guide to the changing landscape of Islam this volume is an indispensable introduction to the experiences of Muslims in the West and the diverse responses of their adopted countries

Newer Islamic Movements in Western Europe Lars Pederson, 2019-01-04 Published in 1999 this book analyses the development of the recent cultural trend represented by the newer Islamic movements among Muslim immigrants in Western Europe Included is a comprehensive description of the institutionalisation and organisation of Islam in Western Europe and an investigation of the organisation activities visions and strategies of the European and Islamic movements Particular attention is paid to the most important Islamist trend among the Turkish minorities Milli Gorus The empirical data is original and has been primarily collected through interviews with leaders of Islamic organisations in Denmark Berlin and Paris The Islamistic stress on the validity of Islam as constituting the basis of particular social and cultural interest is analysed in the perspective of the concepts of life world and system world presented by Jurgen Habermas The investigation demonstrates the existence of locally organised communities whose social and cultural interests are in need of representation It is shown that Islamism constitutes a clear and concrete point of departure from a positive identification in the Muslim immigrant societies This critical relevance of Islamism is discussed in the light of the social and economic marginalisation characterising the situation of the immigrated Muslim minorities in Western Europe The main conclusion is that Islamism is a collective political representation of an alternative position to the dominant cultural and social marginalisation

Muslims in Western Europe Jørgen S. Nielsen, 2004 A useful introduction to the social political cultural and religious position of Muslims living in contemporary Europe It describes the history of early European Muslims and outlines the causes and courses of twentieth century Muslim immigration Explaining how Muslim communities have developed in individual countries the book examines their origins their present day ethnic composition distribution and organisational patterns and the political legal and cultural contexts in which they exist It also provides a comparative consideration of issues common to Muslims in all Western European countries namely the role of the family and the questions of worship education and religious thought In the third edition all country related chapters have been substantially updated A new chapter has also been added on Southern Europe where the maturity of a new generation has seen moves towards political integration This new chapter will reflect the extensive research of the past decade in this area

Selling Points Third edition of a best selling text The only comprehensive survey of Muslims in Western Europe New edition completely updated in light of research of past decade

Note from the APF In this fourth edition all chapters have been substantially updated not least all country related chapters The last ten years have seen some remarkable changes in the attitudes of politicians and of Muslim organizations as well as experienced transformative events and crises
