Environmental Infrastructure in African History Emmanuel Kreike,2013-05-13 Environmental Infrastructure in African History offers a new approach for analyzing and narrating environmental change Environmental change conventionally is understood as occurring in a linear fashion moving from a state of more nature to a state of less nature and more culture In this model non Western and premodern societies live off natural resources whereas more modern societies rely on artifact or nature that is transformed and domesticated through science and technology into culture In contrast Emmanuel Kreike argues that both non Western and premodern societies inhabit a dynamic middle ground between nature and culture He asserts that humans in collaboration with plants animals and other animate and inanimate forces create environmental infrastructure that constantly is remade and reimagined in the face of ongoing processes of change Namibia and

External Resources Bertil Odén,1994 Deforestation and Reforestation in Namibia Emmanuel Kreike,2009-10-26 Descriptions of the late 1800s landscape in the Ovambo floodplain in north central Namibia closely match the area s late 1900s appearance suggesting that little change occurred between the pre colonial baseline and the postcolonial outcome Yet paradoxically colonial conquest population pressure biological invasions new technology and economic globalization caused both dramatic deforestation and reforestation in less than a century The paradox stems from the fact that the prevailing global environmental models obscure and homogenize the process of environmental change different and contradictory interpretations are dismissed as alternative readings or misreadings of the same process Deforestation and Reforestation however argues that the paradox highlights the need to reframe environmental change as plural processes occurring along multiple trajectories that may be dissynchronized and asymmetrical Integrated Water Resources Management in Water-scarce Regions Stefan Liehr,Johanna Kramm,Alexander Jokisch,Katharina Müller,2018-03-15 The research project CuveWaters developed and implemented adapted technologies and accompanying measures to support the national process towards an Integrated Water Resources Management IWRM The aim is to give people in the Cuvelai Etosha Basin reliable access to clean water over the long term thus enhancing their livelihood and health and to create job opportunities IWRM relies on solutions that use various sources types and qualities of water for different purposes CuveWaters implemented pilot plants for rain and floodwater harvesting groundwater desalination as well as facilities for sanitation and water reuse Technical components of the project were framed by societal and scientific components Integrated Water Resources Management in Water scarce Regions provides a comprehensive view on the complexity and interconnectedness of findings and conclusions regarding the principle strategic approach within the CuveWaters project s concept The book aims to present the work of technical social and natural scientists but also of media professionals It gives thematically focussed details on the three technology based solutions which go beyond mere technical considerations and embed this into the overarching process towards IWRM in Namibia Finally it critically addresses lessons learnt and limits of projects in the context of research for implementation This book is of great value to experts professionals and also students and academics in the areas of water management technology development and implementation and transdisciplinary science Exploring Sustainability Science Michael Burns,2008-08-01 Southern Africa is well blessed with a diverse and vibrant human population and a wealth of natural capital The key challenge for sustainable development is to grow society s capacity to use this natural capital to meet the needs of the region s human population especially the poor in ways that sustain environmental life support systems Collaborating across disciplines the authors explore the underpinning principles and the potential of sustainability science in a number of case studies Inland Fishes and Fisheries of NAMIBIA Glenn Merron,Charles Hocutt,2023-10-27 The authors of INLAND FISHES AND FISHERIES OF NAMIBIA are scientists with many years of experience in their fields of work and research Some were my students when I was a Lecturer of Zoology at Stellenbosch University many years ago Some were members of my staff here in Namibia while I was Director of Fisheries and later Executive Director Permanent Secretary of the MFMR There are no other scientists cum authors better equipped for the task of offering a high quality overview covering the freshwater fishes of Namibia and related issues linked to this subject This book is a groundbreaking first of its kind for Namibia a scientifically orientated record of the topic of freshwater fish in our country However at the same time it has been written in such a way that it also offers a leisurely journey for the layman wishing to increase general knowledge about Namibia s freshwater fishes Dr Jan Jurgens Windhoek June 2023
