The Missing Child in Liberal Theory John O'Neill, 1994-12-15 The Missing Child in Liberal Theory opens public discourse on what it is Canadians hold in common through their provision of civic assurances to children and families at risk John O'Neill presents a strongly worded critique of the dominant discourse of the market society He observes the link between duty free capitalism and minimal civic obligations This book calls for a covenant society where civility and reciprocity are underwritten by a second generation concept of the Canadian welfare state that will not abandon children to disastrous prospects in a market society Confronting the current call for a leaner and meaner response to global competitiveness O'Neill challenges concepts of liberalism and communitarianism In their place he proposes a covenant concept of state community and family assurances to derive from our common provision of a civic endowment that we undertake to sustain now and for future generations of Canadians O'Neill argues that if Canada is to survive as a national community capable of responding to the global market we must reaffirm the civic foundations of the state If we fail to do this we will not have a leaner society only a meaner one This society will be hostile to capitalism and socialism alike If we can rededicate the Canadian commons to the well being of the civic person Canada will contribute a model of survival and governance among the nations of the twenty first century

Gender and Equality in Muslim Family Law Lena Larsen,Ziba Mir-Hosseini,Christian Moe,Kari Vogt,2013-04-30

Gender equality is a modern ideal which has only recently with the expansion of human rights and feminist discourses become inherent to generally accepted conceptions of justice In Islam as in other religious traditions the idea of equality between men and women was neither central to notions of justice nor part of the juristic landscape and Muslim jurists did not begin to address it until the twentieth century The personal status of Muslim men women and children continues to be defined by understandings of Islamic law codified and adapted by modern nation states that assume authority to be the natural prerogative of men that disadvantage women and that are prone to abuse This volume argues that effective and sustainable reform of these laws and practices requires engagement with their religious rationales from within the tradition Gender and Equality in Muslim Family Law offers a groundbreaking analysis of family law based on fieldwork in family courts and illuminated by insights from distinguished clerics and scholars of Islam from Morocco Egypt Iran Pakistan and Indonesia as well as by the experience of human rights and women s rights activists It explores how male authority is sustained through law and court practice in different contexts the consequences for women and the family and the demands made by Muslim women s groups The book argues for women s full equality before the law by re examining the jurisprudential and theological arguments for male guardianship qiwama wilaya in Islamic legal tradition Using contemporary examples from various contexts from Morocco to Malaysia this volume presents an informative and vital analysis of these societies and gender relations within them It unpicks the complex and often contradictory attitudes towards Muslim family law and the ways in which justice and ethics are conceived in the Islamic tradition The book offers a new framework for rethinking old formulations so as to reflect contemporary realities and understandings of justice ethics and gender rights
