Figuring Victims in International Criminal Justice Maria Elander, 2018-06-12 Most discourses on victims in international criminal justice take the subject of victims for granted as an identity and category existing exogenously to the judicial process This book takes a different approach Through a close reading of the institutional practices of one particular court it demonstrates how court practices produce the subjectivity of the victim a subjectivity that is profoundly of law and endogenous to the enterprise of international criminal justice Furthermore by situating these figurations within the larger aspirations of the court the book shows how victims have come to constitute and represent the link between international criminal law and the enterprise of transitional justice The book takes as its primary example the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia ECCC or the Khmer Rouge Tribunal as it is also called Focusing on the representation of victims in crimes against humanity victim participation and photographic images the book engages with a range of debates and scholarship in law feminist theory and cultural legal theory Furthermore by paying attention to a broader range of institutional practices Figuring Victims makes an innovative scholarly contribution to the debates on the roles and purposes of international criminal justice
