Our Country's History Social Studies Level E:

Nationalism and History Education Rachel Hutchins, 2016-02-26 History education by nature transmits an official version of national identity. National identity is not a fixed entity and controversy over history teaching is an essential part of the process of redefining and regenerating the nation. France and the United States have in particular experienced demographic and cultural shifts since the 1960s that have resulted in intense debates over national identity. This volume examines how each country's national history is represented in primary schools' social studies textbooks and curricula and how they handle contemporary issues of ethnicity, diversity, gender, socio-economic inequality, and patriotism. By analyzing each country separately and comparatively, it demonstrates how various groups including academics, politicians, and citizen activists have influenced education and how the process of writing and rewriting history perpetuates a nation. Drawing on empirical studies of the United States and France, this volume provides insight into broader nationalist processes and instructive principles for similar countries in the modern world. A Challenge of Common Knowledge II Barbara A. Pierce, 2010-03-22 The following are just a few examples of what is in store: Round off four hundred twenty-four to the nearest ten. 40. The Americas are named after which early explorer? 306. Which food is not a grain: millet, corn, celery, or rye? 361. ENJOY THE CHALLENGE. Nationalism in the English-Speaking World Rachel Hutchins-Viroux, Jeremy Tranmer, 2009-01-23 A great deal has been written in recent years about nationalism. Yet scholars remain sharply divided as to a coherent theoretical model of this phenomenon, and many have called for further empirical research. This volume pursues this line of inquiry, examining a variety of geographical contexts within the English-speaking world, including Australia, Canada, India, the United Kingdom, and the United States, at different historical periods. These interdisciplinary studies combine elements of sociology, political science, history, literature, and cultural studies. Social Studies Steck-Vaughn Company, Steck-Vaughn Staff, 1997 Instructor, 1990 (Re)Constructing Memory: Education, Identity, and Conflict Michelle J. Bellino, James H. Williams, 2017-02-08 How do schools protect young people and call on the youngest citizens to respond to violent conflict and division operating outside and sometimes within school walls? What kinds of curricular representations of conflict contribute to the construction of national identity, and what kinds of encounters challenge presumed boundaries between us and them? Through contemporary and historical case studies drawn from Cambodia, Egypt, Northern Ireland, Peru, and Rwanda, among others, this collection explores how societies experiencing armed conflict and its aftermath imagine education as a space for forging collective identity, peace, and stability, and national citizenship. In some contexts, the erasure of conflict and the homogenization of difference are central to shaping national identities and attitudes. In other cases, collective memory of conflict functions as a central organizing frame through which citizenship and national identity are re-constructed with embedded messages about who belongs and how social belonging is achieved. The essays in this volume illuminate varied and complex interrelationships between education, conflict, and national identity while accounting for ways in which policymakers teachers youth and community members replicate resist and transform conflict through everyday interactions in educational spaces
