Harris, 2013-12-16 This special issue of the Peabody Journal of Education provides a comprehensive overview of the latest developments in peace education reform School reforms based upon principles of peace education have in common a belief in the power of peace to create a positive learning climate in schools and to address the problems of violence in the broader culture A peace education strategy for improving school productivity rests upon three main assumptions 1 Violence contributes to the poor performance of many students 2 Adults in school settings need to address problems created by violence in order for schools to improve 3 Anxieties that make it hard for students to master traditional subject matter can best be addressed by a comprehensive peace education strategy that makes school a safe place to learn and provides students with knowledge about alternative nonviolent ways to resolve conflicts Peace building reforms go beyond responding to immediate forms of violence that may be overwhelming students and teachers to promoting positive images of peace through the study of nonviolence Written by established experts in the field of peace education from six different countries this collection of articles not only represents a wide variety of peace education practices from different corners of the globe but it also represents varying academic perspectives Educators can play a key role in helping human societies progress toward more sustainable ways of living by implementing peacemaking peacekeeping and peace building strategies in school programs Peace education reforms point to a new way of thinking about schools as vehicles for promoting a peace culture through insights offered by nonviolent theory

Notebooks Schubert M. Ogden, 2018-11-06 As artists not uncommonly keep sketchbooks so thinkers often write notebooks Schubert Ogden is a thinker for whom writing notebooks has been an essential discipline throughout his long career of trying to think as a Christian systematic theologian By his own confession constantly writing down his thoughts so he could discover what he wanted to think has always been as necessary to learning how to think theologically as constantly reading in order to think fruitfully with the minds of others This volume is a selection from the indefinitely larger corpus of Ogden's notebooks now archived in the Drew University Library All arising from his thinking as a theologian the entries selected are addressed to some of the more fundamental and therefore mainly philosophical issues now facing anyone who would do Christian theology systematically While each entry stands on its own and may well be read discretely they together make up a single many sided argument for a distinctive way of doing theology today by resolutely pursuing a comparably distinctive way of doing metaphysics and ethics

Notebooks for an Ethics Jean-Paul Sartre, 1992-10 In the famous conclusion to Being and Nothingness Jean Paul Sartre announced that he would devote his next philosophical work to moral problems Although he worked on this project in the late 1940s Sartre never completed it to his satisfaction and it remained unpublished until after his death in 1980 Presented here for the first time in English Notebooks for an Ethics is Sartre's attempt to articulate a moral philosophy In the Notebooks he addresses any number of themes and topics relevant to an effort to formulate a concrete and revolutionary socialist ethics among them the differences between force and violence the relationship of means and ends and the relationship of oppression and alienation Most important he tries to show that there can be an authentic mutual recognition among free individuals where no one steals another's freedom While remaining committed to the basic principles of Being and Nothingness Sartre here seeks to locate the foundation for action in history and society The Notebooks thus form an important bridge between the early existentialist Sartre and the later Marxist social thinker of the Critique of

Dialectical Reason Sartre grapples anew with such central issues as authenticity and the relation of alienation and freedom to moral values In dealing with fundamental modes of relating to the Other among them violence entreaty demand appeal refusal and revolt he highlights the notions of conversion and creation as they figure in the necessary transition from individualism to historical consciousness The Notebooks themselves are complemented here by two appendixes one on the good and subjectivity the other on the problem of blacks in the United States as a case study of oppression Notebooks
