Smith, 2009-04-20 This innovative and popular text provides a clear pathway to understanding public relations campaigns and other types of strategic communication Implementing the pragmatic in depth approach of the previous editions author Ronald D Smith presents a step by step unfolding of the strategic campaign process used in public relations practice Drawing from his experience in professional practice and in the classroom Smith walks readers through the critical steps for the formative research strategic and tactical planning and plan evaluation phases of the process Offering clear explanations relevant examples and practical exercises this text identifies and discusses the decision points and options in the development of a communication program The cases and examples included here explore classic public relations situations as well as current timely events This third edition includes expanded discussions of ethics diversity and technology integrated throughout the text and has a new appendix addressing media training for clients As a classroom text or a resource for professional practice this volume provides a model that can be adapted to fit specific circumstances and used to improve effectiveness and creativity in communication planning It serves as an accessible and understandable guide to field tested procedures offering practical insights that apply to public relations campaigns and case studies coursework

Public Relations Quarterly, 1991 The Social and Interactional Dimensions of Human-Computer

Interfaces Peter J. Thomas, 1995-05-26 This volume analyzes the social implications of computer interfaces Issues Management in Public Relations, 1990 Public Relations and Community Dean Kruckeberg, Kenneth Starck, 1988-05-23

This slim volume hits hard at one major point public relations practitioners need to abandon their dominant attitude of narrowly serving the needs of their clients and instead attempt to engender a broad based sense of community By approaching public relations from this broader perspective both the needs of the client and the community are served Implicit in this theory is that a closer knit community will retain more traditional family based values and therefore comprise a more stable and appreciative economic unit for one's client Canadian Journal of Communication Public relations is commonly viewed as using persuasive communications to achieve a client's vested goal Kruckeberg and Starck challenge this oversimplified approach asserting that public relations is a complex multi flow process that should and can affect society as a whole In Part I they examine critically the historical definition and practice of public relations outlining the shortcomings of this narrow approach Part II explores how the community itself has changed Such issues as the shift from rural to urban life and the attempt to regain a sense of community are discussed Part III attempts to reconcile the authors new notion of public relations and community through an in depth case study The results lead the authors to conclude that only if public relations is practiced as an active attempt to build a sense of community can it become a full partner in the communications milieu
