Gambling Bets for Magicians Bruce Carley, What is this book about I am going to show you a number of games that the magician or gambler plays against a spectator one on one The spectator gets a free choice of the objects that are used in the gambling game Some games use cards dice pieces of paper spinners etc For example say the spectator has a choice of four dice Spectator picks one die and the magician picks one die Each rolls their die and the high number wins Whoever wins a best of 12 game match wins the game Unfortunately for the spectator the magician will almost always win the match The probability will ALWAYS be in the magician s favor There is no sleight of hand or funny business These type of games are called non transitive games What is a non transitive game A beats B B beats C And C beats A The best explanation would be to give an example that you may know Rock Paper Scissors Cinematernity Lucy

Fischer,2014-07-14 Noting that motherhood is a common metaphor for film production Lucy Fischer undertakes the first investigation of how the topic of motherhood presents itself throughout a wide range of film genres Until now discussions of maternity have focused mainly on melodramas which along with musicals and screwball comedies have traditionally been viewed as women s cinema Fischer defies gender based classifications to show how motherhood has played a fundamental role in the overall cinematic experience She argues that motherhood is often treated as a site of crisis for example the mother being blamed for the ills afflicting her offspring then shows the tendency of certain genres to specialize in representing a particular social or psychological dimension in the thematics of maternity Drawing on social history and various cultural theories Fischer first looks at Rosemary s Baby to show the prevalence of childbirth themes in horror films In crime films White Heat she sees the linkage of male deviance and mothering The Hand That Rocks the Cradle and The Guardian both occult thrillers uncover cultural anxieties about working mothers Her discussion covers burlesques of male mothering feminist documentaries on the mother daughter relationship trick films dealing with procreative metaphors and postmodern films like High Heels where fluid sexuality is the theme These films tend to treat motherhood as a locus of irredeemable conflict whereas History and Memory and High Tide propose a more sanguine dynamic and enabling view Originally published in 1996 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Magic: The Complete Course Joshua Jay,2008-11-08

Medical Meddlers Mediums & Magician Keith Souter,2011-11-30 The Victorians had a thirst for knowledge This drove them to explore the uncharted corners of the world plumb the unfathomable depths of science discover evolution and create some of the engineering and architectural marvels of the world Yet this open mindedness also at times made them utterly gullible Because of their closeness to disease and the ever present threat of their own mortality it was inevitable that they would be open to the claims of quacks who promised all kinds of panaceas and to mediums who offered a means of communicating with the dead So too did it make them eager for diversion and entertainment by the conjurers and illusionists of the great music halls Strangely it was through the magic making skill of the conjurers that the activities of many of the tricksters and fraudulent mediums finally came to be exposed Medical Meddlers Mediums Magicians is a box of delights for all students of Victoriana

Film Before Griffith John L. Fell, 1983

The Psychology of Magic and the Magic of Psychology Amir Raz, Jay A. Olson, Gustav Kuhn, 2016-11-18

Magicians have dazzled audiences for many centuries however few researchers have studied how let alone why most tricks work The psychology of magic is a nascent field of research that examines the underlying mechanisms that conjurers use to achieve enchanting phenomena including sensory illusions misdirection of attention and the appearance of mind control and nuanced persuasion Most studies to date have focused on either the psychological principles involved in watching and performing magic or neuromagic the neural correlates of such phenomena Whereas performers sometimes question the contributions that modern science may offer to the advancement of the magical arts the history of magic reveals that scientific discovery often charts new territories for magicians In this research topic we sketch out the symbiotic relationship between psychological science and the art of magic On the one hand magic can inform psychology with particular benefits for the cognitive social developmental and transcultural components of behavioural science Magicians have a large and robust set of effects that most researchers rarely exploit Incorporating these effects into existing experimental even clinical paradigms paves the road to innovative trajectories in the study of human behaviour For example magic provides an elegant way to study the behaviour of participants who may believe they had made choices that they actually did not make Moreover magic fosters a more ecological approach to experimentation whereby scientists can probe participants in more natural environments compared to the traditional lab based settings Examining how magicians consistently influence spectators for example can elucidate important aspects in the study of persuasion trust decision making and even processes spanning authorship and agency Magic thus offers a largely underused armamentarium for the behavioural scientist and clinician On the other hand psychological science can advance the art of magic The psychology of deception a relatively understudied field explores the intentional creation of false beliefs and how people often go wrong Understanding how to methodically exploit the tenuous twilight zone of human vulnerabilities perceptual logical emotional and temporal becomes all the more revealing when top down influences including expectation symbolic thinking and framing join the fray Over the years science has permitted magicians to concoct increasingly effective routines and to elicit heightened feelings of wonder from audiences Furthermore on occasion science leads to the creation of novel effects or the refinement of existing ones based on systematic methods For example by simulating a specific card routine using a series of computer stimuli researchers have decomposed the effect and reconstructed it into a more effective routine Other magic effects depend on meaningful psychological knowledge such as which type of information is difficult to retain or what changes capture attention Behavioural scientists measure and study these factors By combining analytical findings with performer intuitions psychological science begets effective magic Whereas science strives on parsimony and independent replication of results magic thrives on reproducing the same effect with multiple methods to obscure parsimony and minimise detection This Research Topic explores the seemingly orthogonal approaches of scientists and magicians by highlighting the crosstalk as well as rapprochement between psychological science and the art of deception
