Embodying Irish Abortion Reform Aileen O'Shaughnessy, 2024-08-30 Offering a unique perspective this book explores the lived embodied and affective experiences of reproductive rights activists living under and mobilizing against Ireland's constitutional abortion ban Through qualitative research and in depth interviews with activists the author exposes the subtle influence of the 8th Amendment on Irish women and their reproductive bodies whether or not they have ever attempted to access a clandestine abortion It explains how the everyday embodied practices bodily labours and affective experiences of women and gestating people were shaped by the 8th amendment and through the need to prepare for crisis pregnancies In addition it reveals the integral role of women's bodies and emotions in changing the political and social landscape in Ireland through the historical transformation of the country's abortion laws

Hallmark Oliver Popplewell, 2009-03-30 Sir Oliver Popplewell became in his own words officially judicially senile after a distinguished career at the Bar as a High court judge specialising in defamation arbitration and sports law an appropriate niche for a Cambridge cricket Blue And in public life he achieved prominence as chairman of important public enquiries such as the Bradford Stadium disaster Hallmark A Judge's Life at Oxford the sequel to his acclaimed autobiography Benchmark Life Laughter and the Law tells how he went to Oxford University to read Philosophy Politics and Economics as the oldest undergraduate ever to be admitted with considerable press and media coverage and good natured amusement among family and friends Here is a sharply observed sympathetic yet critical picture of modern Oxford seen from the perspective of a leading judge and public figure who could contrast this experience with his Cambridge days from the late 1940s But this is much more than the story of an older student It is hugely entertaining account of a life lived to the full Sir Oliver takes his readers into his confidence shares his experience and presents a unique facet of a fascinating life which can serve as a warm but sharply observed social and cultural history of modern Britain

The Politics of Divination Eugene L. Mendonsa, 2000-09 The Politics of Divination first published in 1982 was a ground breaking work in the political economy of an African culture the Sisala of Northern Ghana The author shows how elders use divination as a political tool to control the behavior of women and young men Gerontocratic control through ritual means is an attempt by elders to dominate the economic activities of youthful men and the production and reproduction of women Yet the elders are not entirely successful in such attempts and their efforts at social control sometimes have less than altruistic motives as the many cases in the book show The author presents divination and ancestral sacrifice in a processual view Within the context of the divinatory process strategizing elders work and rework the rules of their society to deal with real life situations illness misfortune and death Like many other Africans the Sisala believe that such misfortunes are ultimately caused by ancestral anger which can be seen as a reflection of social tension and conflict among the living Divination points out deviants in the family who are poised as the cause of such misfortunes and this conflict is rectified through ancestral propitiation via blood sacrifice on family shrines

Zimbabwe: The Blame Game Tendai R. Mwanaka,2013 The Blame Game is a cycle of creative non fiction pieces pulling the readers through the politics of modern day Zimbabwe Like in any game there are players in this game opposing each other The game is told through the eyes of one of the players thus it is subjective It centres on truthfully trying to find who to blame for Zimbabwe s problems and how to undo all these problems Finding who to blame should be the beginning for the search of solutions It encourages talking to each other maybe about the wrongs we have done to each other and genuinely trying to embrace and forgive each other In trying to undo the problems in Zimbabwe it also offers insight or solutions on a larger platform Africa particularly South Africa that it might learn from other African countries that have imploded before it how to solve its own problems

Russian Music at Home and Abroad Richard Taruskin,2016-09-06 This new collection views Russian music through the Greek triad of the Good the True and the Beautiful to investigate how the idea of nation embeds itself in the public discourse about music and other arts with results at times invigorating at times corrupting In our divided post Cold War and now post 9 11 world Russian music formerly a quiet corner on the margins of musicology has become a site of noisy contention Richard Taruskin assesses the political and cultural stakes that attach to it in the era of Pussy Riot and renewed international tensions before turning to individual cases from the nineteenth century to the present Much of the volume is devoted to the resolutely cosmopolitan but inveterately Russian Igor Stravinsky one of the major forces in the music of the twentieth century and subject of particular interest to composers and music theorists all over the world Taruskin here revisits him for the first time since the 1990s when everything changed for Russia and its cultural products Other essays are devoted to the cultural and social policies of the Soviet Union and their effect on the music produced there as those policies swung away from Communist internationalism to traditional Russian nationalism to the musicians of the Russian postrevolutionary diaspora and to the tension between the compelling artistic quality of works such as Stravinsky s Sacre du Printemps or Prokofieff s Zdravitsa and the antihumanistic or totalitarian messages they convey Russian Music at Home and Abroad addresses these concerns in a personal and critical way characteristically demonstrating Taruskin s authority and
