Canadian Red R. W. Stone, 2018-07-01 The first time the Donovan twins Lucas and Jamie saw a Canadian Northwest Mounted Police officer they knew that's what they wanted to be when they grew up Years later Lucas Donovan now a member of the force is on a mission to bring a ruthless serial killer to justice For years Jack Emerson has eluded capture in the vast Canadian wilderness but now Donovan has vowed that nothing on earth will stop him from seeing this man caught and punished The oath is both personal and professional since one of the men Emerson killed ruthlessly was Constable Jamie Donovan Lucas twin brother Believing that he understands more about Emerson than any other man but restricted by the policies of the force Donovan is forced to take administrative leave to carry out his quest for revenge Accompanied by Red his enormous Malamute sled dog Donovan begins his quest and crosses the border into the US Aside from chasing a dangerous murderer the long pursuit presents special dangers of its own as the two fight for survival in an unfamiliar and unfriendly country where nature takes a toll on all When the time finally comes for the two men to meet Lucas Donovan must decide between personal and professional honor When he became a Canadian Mounted Police Constable Donovan took an oath to enforce and obey the law However the standards he has lived by are now in conflict with his burning desire for revenge His decision on which course of action he will pursue could result in disgrace or death But Donovan is led by the creed of the Canadian Northwest Mounted Police that a Mountie always gets his man

The Prague Spring and the Warsaw Pact Invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968 Günter Bischof, Stefan Karner, Peter Ruggenthaler, 2009-12-29 On August 20 1968 tens of thousands of Soviet and East European ground and air forces moved into Czechoslovakia and occupied the country in an attempt to end the Prague Spring reforms and restore an orthodox Communist regime. The leader of the Soviet Communist Party Leonid Brezhnev was initially reluctant to use military force and tried to pressure his counterpart in Czechoslovakia Alexander Dubcek to crack down. But during the summer of 1968 after several months of careful deliberations the Soviet Politburo finally decided that military force was the only option left. A large invading force of Soviet Polish Hungarian and Bulgarian troops received final orders to move into Czechoslovakia within 24 hours they had established complete military control of Czechoslovakia bringing an end to hopes for socialism with a human face. Dubcek and most of the other Czechoslovak reformers were temporarily restored to power but their role from late August 1968 through April 1969 was to reverse many of the reforms that had been adopted. In April 1969 Dubcek was forced to step down for good bringing a final end to the Prague Spring. Soviet leaders justified the invasion of Czechoslovakia by claiming that the fate of any socialist country is the common affair of all socialist countries and that the Soviet Union had both a right and a sacred duty to defend socialism in Czechoslovakia. The invasion caused some divisions within the Communist world but overall the use of large scale force proved remarkably successful in achieving Soviet goals. The United States and its NATO allies protested but refrained from direct military action and covert operations to counter the Soviet led incursion into Czechoslovakia. The essays of a dozen leading European and American Cold War historians analyze this turning point in the Cold War in light of new documentary evidence from the archives of two dozen countries and explain what happened behind the scenes. They also reassess the weak response of the United States.
