Revised July 17, 1844 United Brothers' Benevolent Benefit Society (LONDON), 1844 Oscar Wilde's Society Plays Michael Y. Bennett, 2016-01-12 As the first collection of essays about Oscar Wilde s comedies the contributors re evaluate Oscar Wilde s society plays as comedies of manners to see whether this is actually an apt way to read Wilde s most emblematic plays Focusing on both the context and the texts the collection locates Wilde both in his social and literary contexts Transactions of the Illinois State Agricultural Society, with Reports from County and District Agricultural Societies Illinois State Agricultural Society, 1865 Prize-essays and Transactions of the Highland and Agricultural Society of Scotland Royal Highland and Agricultural Society of Scotland, Edinburgh, 1921 Self, War, and Society Mary Jo Deegan, 2017-09-08 George Herbert Mead 1863 1931 is a founding figure in the field of sociology His stature is comparable to that of his contemporaries Emile Durkheim and Max Weber Mead s contribution was a profound and unique American theory that analyzed society and the individual as social objects As Mead saw it both society and the individual emerged from cooperative democratic processes linking the self the other and the community Mary Jo Deegan a leading scholar of Mead s work traces the evolution of his thought its continuity and change She is particularly interested in the most controversial period of Mead s work in which he addressed topics of violence and the nation state Mead s theory of war peace and society emerged out of the historical events of his time particularly World War I During this period he went from being a pacifist along with his contemporaries John Dewey and Jane Addams to being a strong advocate for war. From 1917-1918 Mead became a leader in voicing the need for war based on his theory of self and society. After the war he became disillusioned with President Woodrow Wilson with Americans failure to support mechanisms for international arbitration and with the political reasons for American participation in World War I. He returned to a more pacifist and cooperative model of behavior during the 1920s when he became less political, more abstract and more withdrawn from public debate. The book includes Deegan's interpretation of Mead's early social thought, his friendship and family networks, the historical context of America at war and the importance of analysis of violence and the state from Mead's perspective. She also provides illustrative selections from Mead's work, much of which was previously unpublished. Exploring Civil Society Marlies Glasius, David Lewis, Hakan Seckinelgin, 2004-08-02. This volume explores how the idea of civil society has been translated in different cultural contexts and examines its impact on politics worldwide. Comparing and contrasting civil society in Latin America and Eastern Europe, Western Europe and the United States, Africa and South Asia and the Middle East, the contributors show that there are multiple interpretations of the concept that depend more on the particular political configuration in different parts of the world than on cultural predilections. They also demonstrate that the power of civil society depends less on abstract definitions and more on the extent to which it is grounded in the context of actual experiences from around the world. This book includes some of the biggest names in the area such as Mary Kaldor, Ronnie Lipschutz and Helmut Anheier. The Possibilities of Society Regina Hewitt, 1997-06-30. Approaches English Romanticism through sociological theory, arguing that Wordsworth and Coleridge tested hypotheses about social organization and action in their poetry. Offers a timely reevaluation of the Romantic poets as socially engaged thinkers. Proceedings of the American Philosophical Society Held at Philadelphia for Promoting Useful Knowledge American Philosophical Society, 1865. What Happens to People in a Competitive Society Svein Olaf Thorbjørnsen, 2020-01-24. In this book, author Svein Olaf Thorbjørnsen probes the question: What is at stake for human beings in a society dominated by competition, particularly economic competition? Is competition endemic to human nature? Does it preserve the dignity and intrinsic value of the human being? Does it secure better living conditions? In a way, the answer to these queries is a simple yes. It can allow for superior satisfaction of fundamental needs, legitimate self-love and self-realization and encourage positive feelings upon mastering a skill. At the same time, however, competition can also contribute to a strong materialistic self-interest and support classicism, social ranking and elitism; other human beings become only means to a personal success, thus jeopardizing fellowship and collaboration. In a hyper-competitive environment, some of the same positive human values mentioned above—self-love, self-realization, individuality and freedom—can be viewed to pose a threat to the realization of one's potential and to one's true humanity. These competing, contradictory aspects of competition are presented and discussed from perspectives across varying disciplines, from social anthropology and economics to history, ethics, philosophy and theology. Journal of the Statistical Society of London, 1839 Journal of the Society of Arts, 1853 Engineering Society of Detroit v. City of Detroit, 308 MICH 539 (1944), 1944 63 Evaluation for a Caring Society Merel Visse, Tineke A. Abma, 2018-02-01 This book highlights views on responsive participatory and democratic approaches to evaluation from an ethos of care. It critically scrutinizes and discusses the invisibility of care in our contemporary Western societies and evaluation practices that aim to measure practices by external standards. Alternatively, the book proposes several foci for evaluators who work from a care perspective or wish to encourage a caring society. This is a society that sees evaluation and care as a continuously unfolding relational practice of moral political learning contributing to life-sustaining webs. At one level is the evaluator's immediately responsive and interpersonal encounter with the personal troubles of social actors most visible as Mills originally pointed out in an individual's biography and in those social settings directly open to the individual's lived experience. At another level, the sociological and political level, the evaluator operates at what Mills called the arena of public issues where immediate personal troubles are seen not only as problems encountered by individuals but as the result of structural and political arrangements in society. Evaluation for a caring society is thought to operate at both levels. Thomas A. Schwandt, Professor Emeritus, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. The intricate relationship between evaluation and care is hardly addressed by evaluators or caregivers. This book fills a gap as it focuses on the relationship between evaluation and care and provides a multitude of examples of evaluation as a caring practice. The book can serve as an antidote to the present-day haste in social practices and contribute in form and content to developing an evaluation practice which may foster a caring society.
