Analysis Said Amir Arjomand, Edward A Tiryakian, 2004-06-09 At last a volume on civilization that truly reflects the complexity of multiple civilizations The wealth of contributions Arjomand and Tiryakian have assembled demonstrates the value of an old concept for understanding the awful dilemmas confronting human kind in the global age Its thoroughgoing renewal here establishes this book as the essential benchmark for future scholars of civilization Martin Albrow Founding Editor of International Sociology and author of The Global Age winner of the European Amalfi Prize 1997 In our tension filled world many are heralding and others fearing a clash of civilizations The contributors to this volume provides a healthy and persuasive argument about why this clash need not and certainly should not take place They do so moreover not by rejecting the concept of civilization but by developing a less primordial homogenous and essentialist concept of it An important collection that provides illumination in this sometimes frighteningly dark time Jeffrey Alexander Professor and Chair of Sociology at Yale University The concept of civilization may well replace the notions of globalization and identity as the core component in the vocabulary of 21st century sociology The authors contribute a great deal to the clarification of fashionable controversies around the clash of civilizations and multiculturalism They go a long way toward purging the concept of civilization of its ideological overtones and they succeed admirably in turning it into powerful analytic tool of an emerging field of macrosociology known already as civilizational analysis Piotr Sztompka President International Sociological Association Although the concept of civilization has deep roots in the social sciences there is an urgent need to re think it for contemporary times This book points to an exhaustion in using the nation state and world system as the basic macro units of social analysis because they do not get to grips with the soft power variable of cultural factors involved in global aspects of development Also globalization requires us to reconsider the link between civilization and a fixed or given territory This book focuses upon the dynamic aspect of civilizations Among the topics covered are Civilizational analysis and social theory Global civilization and local cultures Civilizational forms Rationalization and Civilization Civilizations as zones of prestige Historical and comparative dimensions of civilization The clash of civilizations A Buddhist Response to the Climate Emergency John Stanley, David R. Loy, Gyurme Dorje, 2009-08 Today we are confronted by the gravest challenge that humanity has ever faced the ecological consequences of our collective actions What role can Buddhism play in our response to this global predicament Can Buddhist traditions help us meet this challenge successfully Should we focus on prayer and meditation or social action This book shows that it is possible to do both It presents the hard science of global warming and solutions to the crisis from a Buddhist perspective together with the views of leading contemporary teachers The Dalai Lama Chatral Rinpoche Sakya Trizin Thich Nhat Hanh Joanna Macy Joseph Goldstein Lin Jensen and other eminent voices address topics such as peak oil deforestation renewable energy and breaking the addiction to fossil fuels in essays that are both meaningful and mindful Prayers for the planet along with steps we can take individually and as a society offer hope and inspiration The Dynamic Society Graeme Snooks, 2002-09-11 This book discusses the nature and process of change in human society over the past two
