Our Europe The Community And National Development:

Our Europe Jacques Delors, Clisthène (Association), 1992 Jacques Delors has soared to prominence as the first transnational political leader of the new Europe Reviled by the British tabloids and lauded by the TUC the President of the European Commission continues to provoke strong reactions across the political spectrum with his astute and relentless drive for European economic and political integration In this new book Delors assisted by the research group Clisthène elaborates the strategy behind the Social Charter and the Delors Plan which has delivered Europe to the brink of the Single European Act At the end of 1992 European economic integration will become a fact and pressures towards political integration particularly in the areas of defence and foreign policy will become irresistible Delors explains that his conception of the Community arose as a response to a menacing international economic conjuncture and outlines the role of an integrated Europe in the new world order He points out that the financial aid made available through EC social programmes to poorer areas already exceeds the total spent by the Americans under the Marshall Plan In a detailed economic survey he predicts that a single open market of 320 million people will benefit member economies by increasing GNP by 4.5 per cent reducing prices by 6 per cent and creating 2 million jobs Drawing extensively on the French experience he shows how regulated integration can maintain Europe's international competitiveness whilst ensuring proper wage levels and working conditions for its population But as Delors reminds us nobody falls in love with a growth rate Our Europe is more than an economic and political programme it is a work of great vision which explores how we might live and act together to transform education work and free time Including an introduction written for this edition Delors first book in English is certain to be as controversial and influential as its author BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved

The United States, the European Union, and the Globalization of World Trade Thomas C. Fischer, 2000-04-30 Professor Fischer presents a comprehensive overview of global trade at the start of a new century from a national regional and international viewpoint He looks closely at the four dominant and competing economic systems the United States the European Union Japan and China and argues that the traditional we win you lose national trade paradigm has been replaced by one that is more collaborative one that is leaning toward de facto world governance He compares foreigners attitudes toward trade and markets with our own using four economic models that typify world trade today He examines the interface between national regional and international trading systems and between business and government then at the prospect of global trade management in different trade sectors under the GATT WTO and other organizations The result is a provocative discussion of global trade today Professor Fischer makes it clear that the United States needs allies Though its influence in the world trade arena will continue America s hegemony has ended The European Union is America s most obvious ally but it has many problems and ambitions of its own The North American Free Trade Agreement has solidified the North American market but it may isolate and lose South America while Japan China Russia and others are left to develop alliances of their own All these factors raise important global questions among them Can American capitalism prevail Should the United States proceed unilaterally as it has so often Or are regional and multinational arrangements preferable If there is further globalization as seems inevitable and if American influence is on the wane what group or organization will lead To explore these questions and provide the beginnings of answers Professor Fischer uses his four competing economic systems and handicaps the process country by country sector by sector with particular attention to transatlantic relations

The European Commission and the Integration of Europe Liesbet Hooghe, 2001 What kind of European Union do top Commission officials want Should the European Union be supranational or intergovernmental Should it promote market liberalism or regulated capitalism Should the Commission be Europe s government or its civil service This 2002 book examines top officials preferences on these questions through analysis of unique data from 137 interviews Understanding the forces that shape human preferences is the subject of intense debate Hooghe demonstrates that the Commission has difficulty shaping its employees preferences in the fluid multi institutional context of the European Union Top officials preferences are better explained by experiences outside rather than inside the Commission political party country and prior work leave deeper imprints than directorate general or cabinet Preferences are also influenced more by internalized values than by self interested career calculation Hooghe s findings are surprising and will challenge a number of common assumptions about the workings and motives of the European Commission

The European Commission and the Transformation of EU Borders Valentina Kostadinova, 2016-12-22 This book examines the contribution of the European Commission to the process of transformation of EU borders Migration issues have been at the centre of EU political debates in recent years From national controversies sparked by the economic difficulties in the aftermath of the 2008 economic downturn to EU wide problems caused by the record number of asylum seekers looking for a refuge in the Union Simultaneously the EU migration regime has undergone a profound change since the 1980s as a result of the developments in the integration process Inevitably this has impacted borders transforming their nature and functions The author looks at four key EU policy areas which in recent decades have substantially altered the EU migration regime the European Neighbourhood Policy social policy border controls and free movement of people Based on a variety of Commission documents the analysis focuses on the different borders that have been transformed their altered nature and functions and the specific impact of the European Commission on to these processes

Sociological Theory and the Capability Approach Spiros Gangas, 2019-10-10 Sociological Theory and the Capability Approach connects normative strands of sociological theory to the fusion of ethics and economics proposed by Amartya Sen s and Martha Nussbaum s capability approach Spanning classical Hegel Marx Durkheim Scheler Weber and contemporary debates Parsons Giddens Luhmann it identifies areas that bridge the current gap between sociology and capability approach It thus builds on explanatory and normative concerns shared by both traditions Engaging readers from sociology and capability approach Spiros Gangas suggests that the proposed dialogue should be layered along the main areas of value theory economy and society extending this inquiry into the normative meaning attached to being human To this end the book reconstructs the notion of agency along the tracks of Nussbaum s central human capabilities considering also alienation and the sociology of emotions It concludes by addressing the capability approach through the lens of social institutions before it takes up the challenge of ideological fundamentalism and how it can be effectively confronted by capability approach This original book provides a fresh perspective on capability approach as it embeds it in the rich pool of sociological theory s accomplishments As an exercise in theoretical and normative convergence it will be required reading for academics and students in social theory cultural theory philosophy and human development studies Social Change and Political Transformation Chris Rootes, Howard Davis, 2018-05-11 Social Change in Political Transformation is thorough examination of political transformation the book features contributors from western and eastern Europe giving their views on how European society and institutions are changing The themes of social change new movements and the development of European institutions are developed within a broad framework and are supported by considerable empirical detail relating to the European Community and a disaggregated eastern Europe Students of political sociology politics and European studies will all find this a useful text providing theories and explanations as well as summaries of recent research The European Council Mary Johnston, 2019-07-11 This book presents the history of the transformation of the summit into the European Council EC It considers the political organizational and legal preparations for the increased involvement of heads of government in a more influential EC international and regional role Multi-Level Governance and European Integration Liesbet Hooghe, Gary Marks, 2002-05-30 European politics has been reshaped in recent decades by a dual process of centralization and decentralization At the same time that authority in many policy areas has shifted to the supranational level of the European Union so national governments have given subnational regions within countries more say over the lives of their citizens At the forefront of scholars who characterize this dual process as Omulti level governance O Liesbet Hooghe and Gary Marks argue that its emergence in the second half of the twentieth century is a watershed in the political development of Europe Hooghe and Marks explain why multi level governance has taken place and how it shapes conflict in national and European political arenas Drawing on a rich body of original research the book is at the same time written in a clear and accessible style for undergraduates and non experts Integral Europe Douglas R. Holmes, 2010-07-01 Over the past 15 years the project of advanced European integration has followed a complex secular and cosmopolitan agenda As that agenda has evolved however so have various hard line populist movements with goals diametrically opposed to the ideals of a harmonious European Union Spearheaded by figures such as Jean Marie Le Pen the controversial leader of France s National Front party these radical movements have become increasingly influential and because of their philosophical affinities with fascism and national socialism politically worrisome In Integral Europe anthropologist Douglas Holmes posits that such movements are philosophically rooted in integralism a sensibility that in its most benign form enables people to maintain their ethnic identity and solidarity within the context of an increasingly pluralistic society Taken to irrational extremes by people like Le Pen integralism is being used to inflame people's feelings of alienation and powerlessness the by products of impersonal transnational fast capitalism The consequences are an invidious politics of exclusion that spawns cultural nationalism racism and social disorder The analysis moves from northern Italy to Strasbourg and Brussels the two venues of the European Parliament and finally to the East End of London This multi sited ethnography provides critical perspective on integralism as a form of intimate cultural practice and a violent idiom of estrangement It combines a wide ranging review of modern and historical scholarship with two years of field research that included personal interviews with right wing activists among them Le Pen and neo Nazis in inner London Fascinating provocative and sobering Integral Europe offers a rare inside look at one of modern Europe's most unsettling political trends The Statesman's Yearbook 2001 B. Turner, 2016-12-29

For the last 137 years The Statesman's Yearbook has been relied upon to provide accurate and comprehensive information on the current political economic and social status of every country in the world The appointment of the new editor only the seventh in 137 years brought enhancements to the 1998-99 edition and these have been continued since then Internet usage figures are included Specially commissioned essays from major political and academic figures supplement country entries in areas of major upheaval and change A fold out colour section provides a political world map and flags for the 191 countries of the world The task of monitoring the pattern or flow of world change is never ending However the annual publication of The Statesman's Yearbook gives all the information needed in one easily digestible single volume It will save hours of research and cross referencing between different sources A prestigious and popular book The Statesman's Yearbook is updated every 12 months In a world of continual change The Statesman's Yearbook is a necessary annual purchase
