Harold K Steen Richard White Gerald W Williams      Conflict in Our National Forests Robert W. Schramek, 2009-03-23

CONFLICT IN OUR NATIONAL FORESTS This book was written to examine the change in the public's view of the Forest Service over the past half century. Today instead of being a respected and science-based agency, the Service is often portrayed as a politically controlled bureaucracy trusted by neither the environmental organizations nor the timber industry. The author attempts to show how and why this happened. Every new administration has created policy changes that have altered how the agency functions and what it is allowed to do. Whether policy changes were made for sound, valid reasons or simply to reward special interest groups that helped them get elected, the resulting changes have often created serious economic and social upheaval both to the Forest Service employees and their families and the economic well-being of the public who use these forests. In easy-to-understand language, the author describes how policies and methods have changed to keep up with new findings in environmental science and the changing social demands of the using public. In the process, you will learn about how the Forest Service employees use traditional and new forest management techniques in planning programs to protect our forests. He concludes by offering some possible solutions to bring the National Forest system and its bounty of resources and ecosystems back to their rightful central place in our public lands. This is a valuable reference for all who use and love our National Forests.

Forests under Fire Christopher J. Huggard, Arthur R. Gómez, 2016-12-15 The devastating fire that swept through Los Alamos, New Mexico, in the spring of 2000 may have been caused by one controlled burn gone wild, but it was far from an isolated event. All through the twentieth century, our national forests have been under assault from all sides: first ranchers and loggers laid their claims to our national forests; then recreationists and environmentalists spoke up for their interests. Who are our national forests really for? In this book, leading environmental historians show us what has been happening to these fragile woodlands. Taking us from lumber towns to Indian reservations to grazing lands, Forests under Fire reveals the interaction of Anglos, Hispanics, and Native Americans with the forests of the American Southwest. It examines recent controversies ranging from red squirrel conservation on Mt. Graham to increased tourism in our national forests. These case studies offer insights into human forest relationships in places such as the Coconino National Forest, the Vallecitos Sustained Yield Unit, and the Gila Wilderness Area, while also drawing on issues and concerns about similar biospheres in other parts of the West. Over the past century, forest management has evolved from a field dominated by the conservationist perspective with humans exploiting natural resources to one that emphasizes biocentrism in which forests are seen as dynamic ecosystems. Yet despite this progressive shift, the assault on our forests continues through overgrazing of rangelands lumbering eroding mountainsides fire suppression and threats to the habitats of endangered species Forests under Fire takes a closer look at the people calling the shots in our national forests from advocates of timber harvesting to champions of ecosystem management and calls for a reassessment of our priorities before our forests are gone Contents Introduction Toward a Twenty First Century Forest Ecosystem Management Strategy Christopher J Huggard Industry and Indian Self Determination Northern Arizona s Apache Lumbering Empire 1870 1970 Arthur R G mez A Social History of McPhee Colorado s Largest Lumber Town Duane A Smith The Vallecitos Federal Sustained Yield Unit The All Too Human Dimension of Forest Management in Northern New Mexico 1945 1998 Suzanne S Forrest Grazing the Southwest Borderlands The Peloncillo Animas District of the Coronado National Forest in Arizona and New Mexico 1906 1996 Diana Hadley America s First Wilderness Area Aldo Leopold the Forest Service and the Gila of New Mexico 1924 1980 Christopher J Huggard Where There s Smoke Wildfire Policy and Suppression in the American Southwest John Herron Struggle in an Endangered Empire The Search for Total Ecosystem Management in the Forests of Southern Utah 1976 1999 Thomas G Alexander Biopolitics A Case Study of Political Influence on Forest Management Decisions Coronado National Forest Arizona 1980s 1990s Paul W Hirt Epilogue Seeing the Forest Not for the Trees The Future of Southwestern Forests in Retrospect Hal K Rothman Our National Forests Richard Hans Douai 1887- Boerker,2016-04-24 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible Therefore you will see the original copyright references library stamps as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world and other notations in the work This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work As a reproduction of a historical artifact this work may contain missing or blurred pages poor pictures errant marks etc Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public We appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant Our National Forests ; a Short Popular Account of the Work of the United States Forest Service on the National Forests Edward Capern,1859 *Our National Forests. with a Foreword by William O.
