Mortalium Animos Catholic Church. Pope (1922-1939 : Pius XI), Pius XII, 1998-02-01 Encyclical Letter of His Holiness Pope Pius XI on Fostering True Religious Unity (Mortalium Animos) Catholic Church. Pope (1922-1939 : Pius XI), 1996 Mortalium Animos Pope Pius XI, 2017-08-23 MORTALIUM ANIMOS ENCYCLICAL OF POPE PIUS XI ON RELIGIOUS UNITY Excerpt Never perhaps in the past have we seen as we see in these our own times the minds of men so occupied by the desire both of strengthening and of extending to the common welfare of human society that fraternal relationship which binds and unites us together and which is a consequence of our common origin and nature For since the nations do not yet fully enjoy the fruits of peace indeed rather do old and new disagreements in various places break forth into sedition and civic strife and since on the other hand many disputes which concern the tranquility and prosperity of nations cannot be settled without the active concurrence and help of those who rule the States and promote their interests it is easily understood and the more so because none now dispute the unity of the human race why many desire that the various nations inspired by this universal kinship should daily be more closely united one to another 2 A similar object is aimed at by some in those matters which concern the New Law promulgated by Christ our Lord For since they hold it for certain that men destitute of all religious sense are very rarely to be found they seem to have founded on that belief a hope that the nations although they differ among themselves in certain religious matters will without much difficulty come to agree as brethren in professing certain doctrines which form as it were a common basis of the spiritual life For which reason conventions meetings and addresses are frequently arranged by these persons at which a large number of listeners are present and at which all without distinction are invited to join in the discussion both infidels of every kind and Christians even those who have unhappily fallen away from Christ or who with obstinacy and pertinacity deny His divine nature and mission Certainly such attempts can nowise be approved by Catholics founded as they are on that false opinion which considers all religions to be more or less good and praiseworthy since they all in different ways manifest and signify that sense which is inborn in us all and by which we are led to God and to the obedient acknowledgment of His rule Not only are those who hold this opinion in error and deceived but also in distorting the idea of true religion they reject it and little by little turn aside to naturalism and atheism as it is called from which it clearly follows that one who supports those who hold these theories and attempt to realize them is altogether abandoning the divinely revealed religion 3 But some are more easily deceived by the outward appearance of good when there is question of fostering unity among all Christians 4 Is it not right it is often repeated indeed even consonant with duty that all who invoke the name of Christ should abstain from mutual reproaches and at long last be united in mutual charity Who would dare to say that he loved Christ unless he worked with all his might to carry out the desires of Him Who asked His Father that His disciples might be one And did not the same Christ will that His disciples should be marked out and distinguished from others by this characteristic namely that they loved one another By this shall all men know that you are my disciples if you have love one for another Ecumenical Dialogue

Anonymous, 1999-11-17 In 1789 the French Revolution took place and launched a host of religious political and social errors which the Popes for over 160 years wrote and legislated against Yet most of these errors have today filtered down to the common man with the result that most people now take for granted many fundamental assumptions that are positively false But almost from the beginning of these errors the Popes spoke out as with one voice inveighing against them Roman

Catholicism: The Basics Michael Walsh, 2005-04-24 A book with the title Roman Catholicism The Basics might quite properly be expected to begin with a chapter on what Catholics believe And in a sense it is an easy question to answer What Catholics believe is summed up in a series of short formal statements called creeds from the Latin credere meaning to believe There are a number of these creeds mainly dating from the earliest centuries of Christianity when they were used as statements of faith for people being initiated into the religion MORTALIUM ANIMOS on Religious Unity Pius

XI, 2016-05-08 MORTALIUM ANIMOS ENCYCLICAL OF POPE PIUS XI ON RELIGIOUS UNITY Excerpt Never perhaps in the past have we seen as we see in these our own times the minds of men so occupied by the desire both of strengthening and of extending to the common welfare of human society that fraternal relationship which binds and unites us together and which is a consequence of our common origin and nature For since the nations do not yet fully enjoy the fruits of peace indeed rather do old and new disagreements in various places break forth into sedition and civic strife and since on the other hand many disputes which concern the tranquility and prosperity of nations cannot be settled without the active concurrence and help of those who rule the States and promote their interests it is easily understood and the more so because none now dispute the unity of the human race why many desire that the various nations inspired by this universal kinship should daily be more closely united one to another 2 A similar object is aimed at by some in those matters which concern the New Law promulgated by Christ our Lord For since they hold it for certain that men destitute of all religious sense are very rarely to be found they seem to have founded on that belief a hope that the nations although they differ among themselves in certain religious matters will without much difficulty come to agree as brethren in professing certain doctrines which form as it were a common basis of the spiritual life For which reason conventions meetings and addresses are frequently arranged by these persons at which a large number of listeners are present and at which all without distinction are invited to join in the discussion both infidels of every kind and Christians even those who have unhappily fallen away from Christ or who with obstinacy and pertinacity deny His divine nature and mission Certainly such attempts can nowise be approved by Catholics founded as they are on that false opinion which considers all religions to be more or less good and praiseworthy since they all in different ways manifest and signify that sense which is inborn in us all and by which we are led to God and to the obedient acknowledgment of His rule Not only are those who hold this opinion in error and deceived but also in distorting the idea of true religion they reject it and little by little turn aside to naturalism and atheism as it is called from which it clearly follows that one who supports those who hold these theories and attempt to realize them is altogether abandoning the divinely revealed religion 3 But some are more easily deceived by the outward appearance of good when there is question of fostering unity among all Christians 4 Is it not right it is often repeated indeed even consonant with duty that all who invoke the name of Christ should abstain from mutual reproaches and at long last be united in mutual charity Who would dare to say that he loved Christ unless he worked with all his might to carry out the desires of Him Who asked His Father that His disciples might be one And did not the same Christ will that His disciples should be marked out and distinguished from others by this characteristic namely that they loved one another By this shall all men know that you are my disciples if you have love one for another

The Resurrection of the Roman Catholic Church Griff Ruby, 2002-09-26 For nearly twenty centuries the Roman Catholic Church withstood all the currents of change and history and maintained a closely guarded orthodoxy which has always served as the basis and center of all Christianity Yet it is as if all of that has been just arbitrarily swept away in the few years since Vatican II Given what the Church has always taught about itself being indefectible how could this have happened Did that Council have something to do with that terrible loss of faith Can the real Catholicism be found today and if so where The shocking answer to this once seen and truly understood is as every bit as glorious as the original resurrection of Christ Himself a tremendous source of faith and inspiration It is a broad based longstanding miracle passing right before our eyes have we but the Grace to see it for what it is
