Excerpt from Proportions of Pins Used in Bridges On the contrary sound practice would have further advanced and mistakes been avoided if at least a scientific examination of the subject had been undertaken previous to experiment in order to arrive at a distinct opinion about what confirmation by test was required of the theory of elasticity There are three questions to be examined in the present paper viz 1 What is the law of distribution of the pressure caused by the tie bar on the bearing surface of the pin 2 What is the law of distribution of the shearing strain over the cross section of the pin and 3 What is the value of its bending moment in any of its sections The solution of the first actually includes also that of the third but it is more convenient to treat the two separately For this purpose consider a top chord pin of a truss bridge represented by Fig 1
