The 'Geometrics' of the Rahab Story Andrzej Toczyski SDB, 2018-05-17 Examines the dialectic relationship between the text conceived as the vehicle of narrative communication and the reader in an assessment of the story of Rahab the prostitute from Joshua 2 Toczyski uses his study to examine how this story has been read by various audiences across time the different interpretive perspectives and methodologies that have thus been brought to the text and the influences this has had on the manner in which the story has been interpreted In particular Toczyski focuses on internal literary analysis of Joshua 2 and the external historical approach and what this can say about the readers of the text The purpose of such insight is to register how successive interpretations overlap and set the interpretative pattern for subsequent generations of readers As a result of this conceptual framework Toczyski presents the Rahab story in the broader context of the communicative process which has been challenging the story's readers for centuries. This deep immersion into both internal and external contexts reveals the generally overlooked thread within the Rahab story: namely, the power of storytelling which may prove relevant for contemporary readers by providing grounds for inter-cultural dialogue in the postmodern world.

Of Course He Pushed Him and Other Sherlock Holmes Stories - Volume 1 Chris Chan, 2022-09-02. Sherlock Holmes adventures continue in seven surprising cases. Holmes and Watson investigate an alleged haunting at the Diogenes Club, vandalism at a prominent art gallery, the case of a frightened amnesiac, the takeover of 221B by vicious criminals, the sequel to The Engineer's Thumb, the defiling of Holmes' Stradivarius violin, and a Christmas story featuring a graveyard with angry insults carved into the headstones. The game is afoot.

Creating Stories With Children Andrew Wright, 2013-07-15. This popular series addresses the needs of primary teachers, teacher trainers, and trainee teachers.

Fatal Fictions Alison L. LaCroix, Richard H. McAdams, Martha Craven Nussbaum, 2017. Writers of fiction have always confronted topics of crime and punishment. This age-old fascination with crime, on the part of both authors and readers, is not surprising given that criminal justice touches on so many political and psychological themes essential to literature and comes equipped with a trial process that contains its own dramatic structure. This volume explores this profound and enduring literary engagement with crime investigation and criminal justice. The collected essays explore three themes that connect the world of law with that of fiction: First, defining and punishing crime is one of the fundamental purposes of government along with the protection of victims by the prevention of crime. And yet, criminal punishment remains one of the most abused and terrifying forms of political power. Second, crime is intensely psychological and therefore an important subject by which a writer can develop and explore character. A third connection between criminal justice and fiction involves the inherently dramatic nature of the legal system itself, particularly the trial. Moreover, the ongoing public conversation about crime and punishment suggests that the time is ripe for collaboration between law and literature in this troubled domain. The essays in this collection span a wide array of genres, including tragic drama, science fiction, lyric poetry, autobiography, and mystery novels. The works discussed include works as old as fifth-century BCE Greek tragedy and as recent as contemporary novels, memoirs, and mystery novels. The cumulative result is arresting: there are killer wives and crimes against trees, a government bureaucrat who sends political adversaries to their death for treason before falling to the same fate himself, a convicted murderer who doesn't die when hanged, a psychopathological collector whose quite sane kidnapping victim nevertheless also collects Justice Thomas, reading and misreading of Bigger, Thomas, a man who forgives his son's murderer and one who cannot forgive his wife's non-existent adultery, fictional detectives who draw on historical analysis to solve murders. These essays begin a conversation, and they illustrate the great depth and power of crime in literature.
