Richardson Ph.D.,2013-07-16 As I think back my life had gone full circle from the Midwest to Germany and back to the Midwest to California In summing up my experiences both in Germany and in the United States I can say that as a youngster I was anti Bolshevik in Germany in my service in the Counterintelligence Corp and I was anti Bolshevik in the United States Throughout it all there was one constant that I can claim to be mine and that was my involvement with youth be it in the Hitler Youth be it in the Jung Volk be it in the schools that I was attending be it with horses and later with dogs and on sailboats I have only met wonderful people If people should turn out to be not so wonderful I would quickly disengage myself from their presence In my teaching I followed the Confucius dictum I will teach one third and hope that those I am teaching will make clear unto themselves the remaining two thirds or I will not teach them again In public education there was no way one could carry that out In the Equestrian field I can say that I had two outstanding students Carol Hancock and Kay Switzer who won the California State Equestrian Championships in different years at the Cow Palace in San Francisco Carol was a walk trot i e a gaited rider and Kay Switzer was a Hunter Jumper It was a fantastic experience working with young people I have also told the young people not to worry about people not knowing them but that they should worry about whether or not they are worth knowing Another dictum that I repeated again based on the Chinese scholar is If you have made a mistake and do not set about to correct it you have already made another mistake It is amazing how much kids remember those little quips Two decades after I had left L A High I was in Cerritos at a service station when a Black gentleman came to me and he asked Excuse me sir are you not Mr Richardson who taught at L A High I said Yes I am He said Sir I will never forget you To me as a teacher that was the best compliment one could ever have At this point in my life I am now sailing an Ericson 27 The nice thing about that boat is that I can stand up straight in the main cabin I can go from the main cabin into the enclosed head without having to stoop down I have a self furling headsail and I have all sorts of reefing gizmos gimmicks on the mainsail and a Yanmar Diesel So that at my age and I am over 84 I can enjoy the days that remain with my faithful little Schnauzer Champion K Bs Sing Noel von Stocker aka Noelle I am in awe of God I do not think that God is particularly loving and kind to people There are billions of people whose prayers if I am right he cannot listen to Hildburg and I are of the conviction that in that time beyond we are going to meet again and be together If there is no hereafter then that which she and I experienced together every moment of that life I had with this wonderful lady was yes Under Two Flags the German Flag and the American Flag from the horse to the canine to the seagulls I have no regrets I thank my sister Florence for the support she has showed me in the closing months of Hildburgs life I was singularly blessed

Munger,2022-07-20 Dell H Munger s The Wind Before the Dawn stands as a profound exploration of environmental adversity and human tenacity Set against the backdrop of a merciless Kansas prairie Munger s narrative extends far beyond mere landscape description delving into the plight and perseverance of the area s inhabitants The author s prose faithfully mirrors the stark barren world it depicts characterized by an unflinching realism extracted from the earth itself The novel s stylized use of language with its vivid parched imagery paints the torpor and desperation of drought ridden life as well as the wellspring of hope that resides in the human spirit situating the work within the broader canvas of American regional literature and painting a vivid literary portrait of the Midwest at turn of the 20th century Dell H Munger drawing perhaps from personal experiences and widespread historical events of the late 19th century American frontier weaves a narrative imbued with the authentic trials and emotional landscape of the people who strove to make a life on the Great Plains His expert crafting of setting the unyielding sun the unrelenting drought the resilient sod corn reflects a deep understanding of the period s agrarian challenges Munger in his portrayal of pioneer resilience has not only constructed a literary monument to the human condition but also has managed to capture the zeitgeist of an era marked by its arduousness and its profound impact on American identity The recommended audience for The Wind Before the Dawn is one that values the intersection of environmental literature and historical fiction Readers seeking to immerse themselves in the gritty reality of pioneering life to feel the weight of the persistent sun and to understand the stoic determination required to overcome the natural elements will find Munger's work to be an engrossing read. Insightful and tangible, this book appeals not merely to those interested in the historical development of the American Midwest but on a broader spectrum to anyone who appreciates a tale of human endurance against the vast indifferent forces of nature.
