Frey,2025-05 Georgia s Historical Recipes is an exploration of our state s oldest recipes from the antebellum period through World War II as painstakingly researched by Georgia archivist Valerie J Frey This volume begins with a discussion of old recipes as primary sources and what they can tell us about the history and culture of their era and how to bring them to life in modern kitchens Frey then moves into fifty sections that can be read alone yet allow readers to build an understanding of how foodways evolved over time Some sections highlight a single recipe illustrating how changes in technology agriculture transportation communication and social patterns led to changes in Georgia kitchens Most of the recipes are previously unpublished waiting in archives to be rediscovered Other sections explore our oldest cookbooks offering biographical and cultural background information that makes them more meaningful For the first time Georgians have a list of the state s early cookbooks and its cooking experts Readers will learn where to find Georgia s oldest recipes and discover many examples to whet their appetites literally and figuratively for a taste of Georgia s past Conserving Southern Longleaf Albert G. Way,2011-11-01 The Red Hills region of south Georgia and north Florida contains one of the most biologically diverse ecosystems in North America with longleaf pine trees that are up to four hundred years old and an understory of unparalleled plant life At first glance the longleaf woodlands at plantations like Greenwood outside Thomasville Georgia seem undisturbed by market economics and human activity but Albert G Way contends that this environment was socially produced and that its story adds nuance to the broader narrative of American conservation The Red Hills woodlands were thought of primarily as a healthful refuge for northern industrialists in the early twentieth century When notable wildlife biologist Herbert Stoddard arrived in 1924 he began to recognize the area s ecological value Stoddard was with the federal government but he drew on local knowledge to craft his land management practices to the point where a distinctly southern agrarian form of ecological conservation emerged This set of practices was in many respects progressive particularly in its approach to fire management and species diversity and much of it remains in effect today Using Stoddard as a window into this unique conservation landscape Conserving Southern Longleaf positions the Red Hills as a valuable center for research into and understanding of wildlife biology fire ecology and the environmental appreciation of a region once dubbed simply the pine barrens The Sporting review, ed. by 'Craven'.
