Negotiating Positive Identity in a Group Care Community Zvi Levy, 1993 In this readable book Zvi Levy Hadassim's Director provides a careful account of how over time he and others have shaped a community to foster health identity and competence in distressed young people Canadian WIZO Women's International Zionist Organization Hadassim is a thriving youth village in Israel that is home for 500 young people and a day educational program for an additional 1 000 Negotiating Positive Identity in a Residential Group Care Community illustrates the organizational expression of a developmental idea in this case Erik Erikson's identity development theory to show how an environment can be created to cope with disrupted development processes among children and adolescents The book describes an ongoing experiment that started fifteen years ago and has since been recognized as an outstanding success The basic information and ideas expressed by Levy can be used to improve the effectiveness of any framework through which adolescents pass during the stages of development including schools community centers and normal families Some of the main topics discussed in this volume are principles for running a multicultural facility organization of the daily life of a large residential setting major parameters in a residential setting as derived from the theories of Erik Erikson on adolescence as a developmental stage comprehensive care for youth in transition and adolescents suffering from aggravated identity crises All child and youth care workers and program administrators can learn much from Levy's account of Hadassim Negotiating Positive Identity in a Residential Group Care Community will be disturbing to many who adhere to the current tenets of good management and child care practice readers need to be prepared to have many assumptions and beliefs challenged The book emphasizes the distress of immigrant and troubled urban youth as an aggravated identity crisis the cause of which needs to be treated before the symptom This volume is of interest to theoreticians practitioners and policymakers in the fields of education child and youth care and developmental psychology as well as scholars in Erikson's theories It is also useful in courses which study education in Israel or that seek solutions to problems such as homeless youth in the Third World Negotiating Positive Identity in a Residential Group Care Community stresses that The answer to deprivation is not the provision of efficient services but an environment and an approach that encourages adolescents to see themselves as active participants and not as patients or passive inmates Residential settings for children and adolescents can successfully handle large numbers and in fact larger numbers can offer some definite advantages The best way to help children develop into autonomous adults is to give them responsibility for their own choices within the framework of a goal oriented community

Residential Group Care in Community Context Zvi Eisikovits, Jerome Beker, 1986 Drawing on their extensive experience a dozen respected scholars examine the state of the art of group care in Israel. In addition, they highlight major implications of the Israeli experience for child and youth care services worldwide, suggesting ideas for the development of more effective patterns of community and residential care in the West. Successful in alleviating developmental deficits and maximizing the contributions of the country's most talented young people, the acclaimed Israeli approach to group care is thoroughly addressed here. The authors analyze the complex interaction between culture and residential group care, the importance of the role of the parents, and the public policy considerations related to residential care. This informative and useful volume will contribute to the enhancement of programs and services for young people everywhere.

Developmental Group Care of Children and Youth Jerome Beker, Henry W. Maier, 2014-02-04. A recognized leader in the professional development of the child and youth care field presents in this single volume a collection of his work related to group care work with children and youth. Henry Maier shares his observations about human development in the group care context, the perceptions of children and youth, the environments in which we work with them, the role of the worker, and the preparation of child and youth care workers. Dr. Maier's practical approaches reflect the most recent research and thinking in human development. This book is a practical text for courses in the child and youth field as well as a useful handbook for child and youth caseworkers already on the job. BACKCOVER COPY In what way can group care, non-familial living, assure children a developmental progress similar to that of children growing up within regular family care settings? In his practical new text, Henry Maier, one of the most vibrant, creative, and humane figures in child and youth care work today, answers that question for child care professionals using a developmental perspective in his approach to residential group care. He focuses on the developmental requirements of children and adolescents in relation to the care they receive while they are in non-familial group living situations and also highlights training for the caregivers in order that they can effectively provide the kind of caring involvement that children and youth require. The real contribution of this book is that it cuts through the confusion of competing values and competing points of view to focus on the care at the heart of child care work. attests Richard W. Small, PhD, Executive Director of the Walker Home and School, Needham, Massachusetts. Forty Years of Research, Policy and Practice in Children's Services Nick Axford, Vashti Berry, Michael Little, Louise Morpeth, 2005-06-24. Founded in 1963, the Dartington Social Research Unit conducts scientific research into child development within the context of children's services, with a view to informing interventions for children in need. Originating from a festschrift to celebrate the work of Roger Bullock, one of Dartington's first researchers and a Fellow of the Centre for Social Policy, this book from a prestigious author team examines developments in children's services over the past forty years, providing a context for future policy making. Ten key areas are covered, including foster care and family support, while two overview chapters explore 40 years of Social Research and Gaps in the Knowledge and Future Challenges.
