Assurance of Seafood Quality Hans Henrik Huss, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 1994-01-01 This document is primarily focused on the application of the Hazard Analysis Critical Control Point HACCP system to the fish industry The document reviews in detail the potential hazards related to public health and spoilage related to fish and fish products and discuss the utilization of HACCP in different type of fish industries It contains a chapter making clear the limitations of classical fish inspection and quality control methods based solely on the analysis of final samples A brief introduction about the relationship between the HACCP system and the ISO 9000 series is also included The document is completed with chapters related to cleaning and sanitation and establishments for seafood processing primarily seen from the HACCP point of view Quality Assurance in Seafood Processing: A Practical Guide A. David Bonnell, 2012-12-06 While there are many quality assurance books on the market very few address the application of the concept to the seafood industry In addition many of the books that are available take a theoretical approach and there fore do not provide actual examples of the fins and bones of quality programs The author in teaching quality assurance over nine years has not been able to find a textbook that is suitable as a reference text in quality assurance courses for the seafood industry It is this situation that has prompted the preparation of this book which takes a practical approach to the subject of quality assurance in seafood processing operations This book can serve as either a textbook or as a reference text As a textbook it is written for students of quality assurance at the technician technologist and university levels In this role it is intended that the student will start at the beginning of the book and proceed through in sequence so as to gain a complete understanding of the design implementation and operation of a quality program in seafood processing operations It is the hope of the author that the book also functions quite well as a desk reference for the managers of seafood processing operations who need to refer occasionally to particular items or chapters In this sense each chapter is designed to stand alone as a discussion of a particular concept within the quality assurance discipline Quality Assurance in Seafood Processing T. Fish Processing Technology George M. Hall, 2012-12-06

As with the first edition this book includes chapters on established fish processes and new processes and allied issues. The first five chapters cover fish biochemistry affecting processing curing surimi and fish mince chilling and freezing and canning. These established processes can still show innovations and improved theory although their mature status precludes major leaps in knowledge and technology. The four chapters concerned with new areas relevant to fish processing are directed at the increasing globalisation of the fish processing industry and the demands from legislation and the consumer for better quality safer products. One chapter reviews the methods available to identify fish species in raw and processed products. The increased demand for fish products and the reduced catch of commercially important species has led to adulteration or substitution of these species with cheaper species. The ability to detect these practices has been based on some elegant analytical techniques in electrophoresis.
