Once the decision has been made to introduce lean management, the task of actually reengineering the organization's business processes will involve months or even years of work and study. This book affords researchers, users, and students valuable assistance in implementing new organizational concepts through the employment of new information processing techniques. The structure of the book follows the business processes of logistics, product development, information, and coordination and offers detailed examples of how outdated organizational structures can be reengineered. The portrayals are embedded in the proven Architecture of Integrated Information Systems (ARIS) and emphasize an holistic view of the problem through function, data, and process models. At the same time, it shows how design specifications can be employed to translate requirements definitions into concrete system implementations. Innovation and the Knowledge Economy Paul Cunningham, Miriam Cunningham, 2005. Exploitation of Information and Communications Technologies (ICT) is critical to building the Knowledge Economy. This work brings together a comprehensive collection of contributions on commercial, government, or societal exploitation of the Internet and ICT, representing research and practical eAdoption from Africa, the Americas, Asia, and Europe.
