Linear Planning to Reduce Regional Inequality Rossella Moscarelli,2023-04-24

This book explores the advantages of a linear model of planning in reducing regional inequalities Linear planning commonly discussed in the past as a method which plans the development of the city is completely redefined here in the form of a design approach inspired by projects shaped by linear routes such as cycle or walking paths Such concept is applied to the urgent topic of territorial marginality which specifically neglects rural and mountainous areas and recently is coped by European and National policies The analysis of these policies demonstrates the necessity of alternative strategies equipped to deal with both the internal and external causes that determine the critical conditions in these fragile environments By implementing the concept of linear planning in these contexts this book proposes to enlarge the perspective of traditional policies contrasting the regional inequalities that usually determine the design of projects just within the boundaries of the marginal areas Cycle and walking paths are experimental cases of linear planning as they have not been influenced or formed by political boundaries and therefore are able to equally involve both the central and marginal zones This book presents a review of current issues such as regional inequalities with attention to their related policies as well as an analysis of the concept of linear planning as seen through the study of one of the most famous cases of a walking path the Way of St James in Spain

Portable Prisons James Gacek, 2022-01-15 The pervasiveness of surveillance punishment and control within and outside of spaces such as jails prisons and detention centres suggests that the carceral is becoming an increasingly prevalent presence in our lives going beyond historical standards The contemporary use of electronic monitoring extends carceral territory beyond prison walls into people's homes and everyday lives Empirically and empathetically driven Portable Prisons is a telling exploration of the electronic monitoring of offenders based on an ethnographic case study from Scotland Electronic monitoring must be understood in both intent and effect as a carceral practice an expression of the carceral state and its overreaching punitive capabilities James Gacek demonstrates that various people experience punishment by means of restrictions around mobility space and time in ways that strongly overlap with the reported experiences of interviewed prisoners Drawing attention to how the neoliberal state outsources the labour of punishment to private corporations and the punished themselves he also rejects the idea that soft punishment is in any way related to the movement for decarceration Offering an original contribution to our understanding of the geography of incarceration Portable Prisons is a sophisticated account of electronic monitoring underlining the growing significance of this field
