Role Conflict The Teacher:

Role Conflict and the Teacher (RLE Edu N) Gerald Grace, 2012-04-27 Gerald Grace here explores the concept of role conflict and the current theorizing about the problems of the teacher's role. He investigates four potential problem areas: role diffuseness, role vulnerability, role commitment versus career orientation, and value conflict in a sample of one hundred and fifty secondary school teachers in a Midland town. The analysis shows how a teacher's commitment to a particular set of values exposes him or her to conflict in an achievement-oriented and pluralistic society. These conflicts present in all schools are seen in their clearest form among secondary modern school teachers. The author suggests that colleges of education in emphasizing commitment and in assuming value consensus predispose their students to conflict experiences. He indicates that internal career possibilities in schools and the influence of graduate or certified status are also important factors in conflict exposure. While accepting that certain role conflicts are important in the genesis of change, the author proposes that levels of dysfunctional conflict can be reduced by the action of head teachers by structural change in the schools and innovations in teaching education.

Teacher in a role conflict. A focus on parents Nicky Jan, 2019-06-26 Seminar paper from the year 2015 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Pedagogy Literature Studies grade 1.6 University of Frankfurt/Main language English abstract In the last years the job as a teacher has become more and more stressful as many studies about burnout prove. One reason for this might be that teachers are put under pressure by various factors, for example the pressure to answer their own expectations, the parents who get involved more and more into the school and the classroom, the feeling to be as good as other colleagues, the ongoing changes in the syllabus and structural changes that expect more and more from teachers, social expectations or status, and many more aspects. The school is a social system and teachers are very important parts of this system, but unfortunately there is little attention paid to this fact. Many studies that try to analyze the system, school mainly focus on the students and little on the teachers.
