Role Of Natural Selection In Human Evolution:

The Role of Natural Selection in Human Evolution Francisco M. Salzano, 1975 Non Aboriginal material

Natural Selection and Beyond Charles Hyde Smith, George Beccaloni, 2010 Alfred Russel Wallace 1823 1913 was one of the late nineteenth century's most potent intellectual forces. His link to Darwin as co-discoverer of the principle of natural selection alone would have secured him a place in history but he went on to complete work entitling him to recognition as the father of modern biogeographical studies as a pioneer in the field of astrobiology and as an important contributor to subjects as far ranging as glaciology land reform anthropology and ethnography and epidemiology. Beyond this many are coming to regard Wallace as the pre-eminent field biologist collector and naturalist of tropical regions. Add to that the fact that he was a vocal supporter of spiritualism socialism and the rights of the ordinary person and it quickly becomes apparent that Wallace was a man of extraordinary breadth of attention. Yet his work in many of these areas is still not well known and still less recognized is his relevance to current day research almost 100 years after his death. This rich collection of writings by more than twenty historians and scientists reviews and reflects on the work that made Wallace a famous man in his own time and a figure of extraordinary influence and continuing interest today.

The Philosophy of Human Evolution Michael Ruse, 2012-01-12 Provides a unique discussion of human evolution from a philosophical viewpoint covering such issues as religion race and gender.

Processes in Human Evolution Francisco José Ayala, Camilo José Cela Conde, 2017 The discoveries of the last decade have brought about a completely revised understanding of human evolution due to the recent advances in genetics palaeontology ecology archaeology geography and climate science. Written by two leading authorities in the fields of physical anthropology and molecular evolution Processes in Human Evolution presents a reconsidered overview of hominid evolution synthesising data and approaches from a range of inter-disciplinary fields. The authors pay particular attention to population migrations since these are crucial in understanding the origin and dispersion of the different genera and species in each continent and to the emergence of the lithic cultures and their impact on the evolution of cognitive capacities. Processes in Human Evolution is intended as a primary textbook for university courses on human evolution and may also be used as supplementary reading in advanced undergraduate and graduate courses. It is also suitable for a more general audience seeking a readable but up to date and inclusive treatment of human origins and evolution.

The Evolutionary Mechanism of Human Dysfunctional Behavior Ivan Fuchs, 2019-04-18 Why is humanity by far the most successful animal in the animal kingdom but when it comes to survival of the fittest we pull against the impulse toward natural selection Unique among vertebrates humans develop and practice varied forms of dysfunctional or maladaptive behavior the graver of which are categorized as mental disorders which doesn't sustain our species Dr Ivan Fuchs explains why this is the case setting his discussion within the fields of psychiatry evolutionary biology and genetics marshalling a wide range research to make a compelling case In this work Dr Ivan Fuchs provides his theory on human dysfunctional behavior rooted in Darwinian evolutionary thinking His theory includes 1 An attempt to identify the basic evolutionary mechanism that leads to dysfunctional or maladaptive behavior that is increasing in human populations He proposes that this mechanism consists of progressive relaxation of selection pressures originating in the natural environment as a result of the technological and cultural development in human civilization These developments protect against many natural inconveniences and dangers such as harmful weather conditions scarce or unreliable food supplies cruel even deadly competition for life sustaining or reproductive resources danger of predation and so on The relaxation of natural selection pressures leads to excessive diversification of innate predispositions that due to the complexities of social coexistence has both far reaching beneficial as well as harmful consequences 2 Dr Fuchs deals primarily with severe forms of dysfunctional behavior categorized as mental disorders pinpointing those genetically based behavioral complexes which predispose humans to anxiety affective and personality disorders paranoia and schizophrenia 3 Dr Fuchs also makes clear that the above innate predispositions cannot lead by themselves to the whole clinical picture of diagnosable mental disorder categories In order for full blown clinical symptomatology to develop the innate predisposition has to interact with influences after childbirth first of all learning Consequently psychiatric understanding and research has to distinguish sharply between those mental brain structures and functions which constitute the innate predisposition to a certain mental disorder versus those ones involved secondarily during the lifespan This consideration is detailed in the case of schizophrenia spectrum of disorders The above theoretical considerations have important therapeutic preventive and research implications
