and use as energy so that it will be chosen over any other energy source Insulin is produced to process the glucose in your bloodstream by taking it around the body Since the glucose is being used as a primary energy your fats are not needed and are therefore stored Typically on a normal higher carbohydrate diet the body will use glucose as the main form of energy By lowering the intake of carbs the body is induced into a state known as ketosis Ketosis is a natural process the body initiates to help us survive when food intake is low During this state we produce ketones which are produced from the breakdown of fats in the liver The end goal of a properly maintained keto diet is to force your body into this metabolic state We don't do this through starvation of calories but starvation of carbohydrates Our bodies are incredibly adaptive to what you put into it when you overload it with fats and take away carbohydrates it will begin to burn ketones as the primary energy source Optimal ketone levels offer many health weight loss physical and mental performance benefits Benefits of a Ketogenic Diet There are numerous benefits that come with being on keto from weight loss and increased energy levels to therapeutic medical applications Most anyone can safely benefit from eating a low carb high fat diet Weight Loss The ketogenic diet essentially uses your body fat as an energy source so there are obvious weight loss benefits On keto your insulin the fat storing hormone levels drop greatly which turns your body into a fat burning machine Scientifically the ketogenic diet has shown better results compared to low fat and high carb diets even in the long term Many people incorporate MCT Oil into their diet it increases ketone production and fat loss by drinking bulletproof coffee in the morning Control Blood Sugar Keto naturally lowers blood sugar levels due to the type of foods you eat Studies even show that the ketogenic diet is a more effective way to manage and prevent diabetes compared to low calorie diets AND MUCH MORE

Gaesser, Glenn A. Gaesser, Ph.D. & Karin Kratina, Ph.D., R.D., R.D. Karin Kratina, 2004-09-21 For today's Americans it is an obsession. What should I eat? What should I avoid? Which foods should I combine? How do I get in the zone or eat for my type? We must now choose between healthy fats and unhealthy fats, good carbs and bad carbs and high glycemic and low glycemic. While the formulas for healthful eating increase so do our waistlines. The perfect example is the low carbohydrate diet. Since the mid 1990s low carb diets have made a phenomenal resurgence led by Dr Robert Atkins program which has been on The New York Times bestseller list continuously for the past five years. But his plan is by no means the only one. Others also are jockeying to take the low carb crown including the South Beach Diet, the latest in the low carb offerings that has pushed its way up the bestseller lists. With this resurgence many Americans are now avoiding carbs. For the time being carbs appear to be the enemy in many people's minds and stomachs. We emphasize for the time being because when it comes to diets nothing lasts forever. Americans went through a similar obsession with carbohydrate avoidance a few decades ago when many low carb diet books topped the bestseller lists in the 1960s and 1970s including the original version of Atkins low carb diet. Despite their popularity low carb diets had virtually no measurable effect on our waistlines; the weight of the average U.S. adult at the end of 70s was essentially the same as it was at the start of the previous decade. It seems that a diet limited to primarily protein and fat was not the answer after all. And when it comes to dieting it seems Americans cannot resist a fad. But no matter what the latest fad diet claims the bottom line is calories regardless of type do count. Unfortunately Americans seem to have found out the hard way. It's the Calories Not the Carbs was written in part to clarify this point and set the record straight. It also was written to show you that eating well and living well is about giving yourself the best possible intake of nutrients to allow your body to be as healthy as possible and to work as well as it can. It is getting the nutrients your body needs for optimal mental performance and emotional balance. It is not a set of rules. Your body's needs and health goals are completely unique and depend on a whole host of factors from the strengths and weaknesses you were born with to the effects your current environment has on you. No single way of eating is perfect for everyone although there are general guidelines that apply to us all. Whether your personal health goal is to lose weight, maintain your current weight, become more active, have more energy or just improve your overall health and fitness this guide will show you how to use the Food Guide Pyramid, listen to your body and become more active to make lasting healthful lifestyle changes for health and wellness and to say goodbye to fad diets of all types for good. Low-Carb Diet For Dummies Katherine B.
