More Than Coping:

Coping with a Bad Global Image John Franklin Copper, Ta-ling Lee, 1997 This book assesses the human rights condition in the People's Republic of China during 1993-94 focusing on how abuses have engendered difficulties for Beijing in international relations. It considers changes in the political and legal systems and Communist ideology more correctly its demise in its appraisal. These the authors contend are causative factors of human rights abuses and need to be understood to put the human rights situation in its proper perspective. Such matters as crime, forced labor and executions are examined in detail to delineate the worst kinds of human rights abuses as well as current trends. Dissidents, religious advocates and intellectuals are also a focus of attention. Copublished with the East Asia Research Institute. Adolescent Coping Erica Frydenberg, 1997 Adolescence is a time when coping is very important when many new experiences and responsibilities are thrust upon individuals. Frydenberg provides a clear account of current research and thinking on coping illustrated by the voices of young people throughout the book. Adolescent Coping focuses on how young people manage a range of life problems and on the coping styles of particular groups such as the gifted and those with illness. The author addresses the relationships between coping and age, gender and ethnicity and between family functioning and coping.
