The Depression Dilemmas of Rural Iowa, 1929-1933 Lisa L. Ossian, 2012-01-01 To many rural Iowans the stock market crash on New York's Wall Street in October 1929 seemed an event far removed from their lives even though the effects of the crash became all too real throughout the state From 1929 to 1933 the enthusiastic faith that most Iowans had in Iowan President Herbert Hoover was transformed into bitter disappointment with the federal government As a result Iowans directly questioned their leadership at the state county and community levels with a renewed spirit to salvage family farms demonstrating the uniqueness of Iowa's rural life Beginning with an overview of the state during 1929 Lisa L Ossian describes Iowa's particular rural dilemmas evoking through anecdotes and examples the economic nutritional familial cultural industrial criminal legal and political challenges that engaged the people of the state The following chapters analyze life during the early Depression new prescriptions for children's health creative housekeeping to stretch resources the use of farm playlets to communicate new information creatively and memorably the demise of the soft coal mining industry increased violence within the landscape and the movement to end Prohibition The challenges faced in the early Great Depression years between 1929 and 1933 encouraged resourcefulness rather than passivity creativity rather than resignation and community rather than hopelessness Of particular interest is the role of women within the rural landscape as much of the increased daily work fell to farm women during this time While the women addressed this work simply as making do Ossian shows that their resourcefulness entailed complex planning essential for families emotional and physical health Ossian's epilogue takes readers into the Iowa of today dominated by industrial agriculture and asks the reader to consider if this model that stemmed from Depression era innovation is sustainable Her rich rural history not only helps readers understand the particular forces at work that shaped the social and physical landscape of the past but also traces how these landscapes have continued in various forms for almost eighty years into this century

The Routledge Introduction to English Canadian Literature and Digital Humanities Paul Barrett, Sarah Roger, 2025-06-30 The Routledge Introduction to English Canadian Literature and Digital Humanities is a guide to the concepts and theories at the intersection of Canadian literary studies and digital humanities DH Equal parts theoretical and practical it focuses on debates that overlap the two domains This book historicizes the connections between the two by surveying the history of DH in Canada the tradition of Canadian writers engaging with technology and DH analyses of Canadian literature It also situates both CanLit and DH with respect to contemporary concerns about alterity and it demonstrates how digital technologies allow writers and scholars to intervene in them This book complements its theoretical discussions with a practical introduction to DH methods Using Canadian literary texts and examples from projects at the intersection of CanLit and DH it introduces key DH approaches to novice readers Topics covered include data collection data management and textual analysis as well as essential DH tools and the Python programming language A concluding case study guides readers interested in applying the ideas presented

Gender and Natural Resource Management Bernadette P. Resurrección, Rebecca Elmhirst, 2012-05-31 This book is about the gender dimensions of natural resource exploitation and management with a focus on Asia It explores the uneasy negotiations between theory policy and practice that are often evident within the realm of gender environment and natural resource management especially where gender is understood as a political negotiated and contested element of social relationships It offers a critical feminist perspective on gender relations and natural resource management in the context of contemporary policy concerns decentralized governance the elimination of poverty and the mainstreaming of gender Through a combination of strong conceptual argument and empirical material from a variety of political economic and ecological contexts including Cambodia China Indonesia Malaysia Nepal Thailand and Vietnam the book examines gender environment linkages within shifting configurations of resource access and control The book will serve as a core resource for students of gender studies and natural resource management and as supplementary reading for a wide range of disciplines including geography environmental studies sociology and development It also provides a stimulating collection of ideas for professionals looking to incorporate gender issues within their practice in sustainable development Published with IDRC

Property Rights and Economic Development Toon van Meijl, Franz von Benda-Beckham, 2012-11-12 First Published in 1999 This book provides a critical analysis of the widespread assumption that the formalisation and standardisation of property rights through state legislation has a positive impact on economic development It is based on anthropological case studies of land and natural resource rights in Southeast Asia and Oceania These suggest that the economic impact of the formalisation of property rights is not necessarily positive certainly not for all categories of peoples They also suggest that state reform of property rights do not necessarily eliminate the conditions of legal pluralism but rather add new legal structures to an already complex constellation of property rights and duties The point of departure for the empirical analyses of the central hypothesis examined in this book is that the practical significance of complex forms of property rights and related socio economic practices cannot be usefully examined within formalistic one dimensional and normatively oriented legalistic or economic approaches Instead an anthropological approach to law is advocated in order to analyse the complicated multi dimensional relationships between property rights and economic development and their embeddedness in social practice Based on this approach the contributions to this book show how different people and institutions attribute different meanings to the various components of property relationships and how they use them as resources in their everyday lives and social struggles Voices of the True-hearted ,1846 A Biblical Case for an Old Earth David Snoke,2006-08-01 The present creation evolution debate is often cast as a choice between two positions naturalistic evolution over millions of years or miraculous creation six thousand years ago When simplified this choice is often presented as one between science and the Bible a choice that leaves much ground between the two views yet to be discussed A Biblical Case for an Old Earth seeks to address the gap between theistic evolutionism and young earth creationism by finally paying due attention to the biblical aspect of the debate Both a scientist and a preacher David Snoke presents a theological study of several themes in the evolution discussion including the balance theme of Scripture and the day age interpretation Complete with an appendix that gives a literal translation of Genesis 1 11 this intriguing study will interest both scientists and lay Christians who want to dig into the faith science intersection Growing a Better Future in Viet Nam Le Nguyet Minh,Bert Maerten, Property Rights and the Constitution Dennis J. Coyle,1993-01-01 A discussion of current trends in the constitutional protection of economic liberties Other topics dealt with include the current trends in and relevance of constitutional law for welfare rights labor unions and labor law Recent Supreme Court decisions on property rights also receive much attention From publisher description Regenerative Design Carlos Cobreros,Emanuele Giorgi,Tiziano Cattaneo,2025-06-16 This book aims to provide bases for reasoning on what opportunities the regenerative approaches to urban architectural design and development can bring to our territories and living systems environment society city and learning It collects research experiences and considerations from experts that present innovations from different contexts especially from the Latin Mediterranean context The goal of this book is to provide the reader with case studies analysis and guidelines resulting from scientific research from academia and practice The book collects research focused on topics that are nowadays crucial to understand how to intervene in the complicated contexts of socio environmental emergencies These studies are organized into seven sections discussing from the importance of new narrative facing future environmental challenges to the appropriate methodologies and approaches for regenerative culture with systemic view The book closes with outputs dreams and hopes of regenerative design challenges and opportunities to rewrite our alliance with the environment and to move forward our relation with the socio environmental capital Harmonies of Heaven and Earth Joscelyn Godwin,1987-11-01 Joscelyn Godwin explores music s effects on matter living things and human behavior Turning to metaphysical accounts of the higher worlds and theories of celestial harmony the author follows the path of musical inspiration on its descent to Earth illuminating the archetypal currents that lie beneath Western musical history The Risk of Regional Governance Thomas Skuzinski,2017-09-18 Creating metropolitan regions that are more efficient equitable and sustainable depends on the willingness of local officials to work together across municipal boundaries to solve large scale problems How do these local officials think Why do they only sometimes cooperate What kind of governance do they choose in the face of persistent problems The Risk of Regional Governance offers a new perspective on these questions Drawing on theory from sociology and anthropology it argues that many of the most important cooperative decisions local officials make those about land use planning and regulation are driven by heuristic biased reasoning driven by cultural values The Risk of Regional Governance builds a sociocultural collective action framework and supports it with rich survey and interview data from hundreds of local elected officials serving in the suburbs of Detroit and Grand Rapids Michigan It is a story of the Rust Belt of how local officials think about their community and the region and most importantly of how we might craft policies that can overcome biases against regional governance

Translation as Advocacy Various,2024-04-25 What does it mean to advocate in translation for translation through translation What does advocacy look like for those who do the translating or for those whose work is translated To what extent is translation itself a form of advocacy These what questions are the driving force behind this collection Translation as Advocacy highlights the innovative ways in which translator academics in seven different fields discuss their practice in relation to their understanding of advocacy The book aims to encourage people to think about translators as active agents bringing new work into the receiving culture advocating for the writers they translate for ideas for practices As such the book asserts that the act of translation is a mode of cultural production and a political intervention through which the translator as advocate claims a significant position in intercultural dialogue. Featuring seven interrelated chapters, the book covers themes of judgement spaces for translation, classroom practice, collaboration, intercultural position, textuality and voice. Each chapter explores the specific demands of different types of translation work, the specific role of each stage of the process and what advocacy means at each of these stages, for example, choosing what is translated, mediating between author and receiving culture, pitching to publishers, social interactions framing the translation for different audiences, teaching, creating new canons, gatekeepers and prizes, dissemination, marketing and reception. This book repositions the role of the translator/academic as an activist who uses their knowledge and understanding to bring agency to the complex processes of understanding across time and space. Moving critically through the different stages that the translator/academic occupies, using the spaces for research, performance and classroom teaching as springboards for active engagement with the key preoccupations of our times, this book will highlight translation as advocacy for students, educators, audiences for translation and the translation industry. Like all the volumes in the Language Acts and Worldmaking series, the overall aim is two fold: to challenge widely held views about language learning as a neutral instrument of globalisation and to innovate and transform language research, teaching and learning together with Modern Languages as an academic discipline by foregrounding its unique form of cognition and critical engagement. Specific aims are to propose new ways of bridging the gaps between those who teach and research languages and those who learn and use them in everyday contexts, from the professional to the personal, put research into the hands of wider audiences, share a philosophy, policy and practice of language teaching and learning which turns research into action, provide the research experience and data to enable informed debates on current issues and attitudes in language learning, teaching and research, share knowledge across and within all levels and experiences of language learning and teaching, showcase exciting new work that derives from different types of community activity and is of practical relevance to its audiences, disseminate new research in languages that engages with diverse communities of language practitioners.

Planning for Equitable Urban Agriculture in the United States Samina Raja, Marcia Caton Campbell, Alexandra Judelson, Branden Born, Alfonso Morales, 2024-03-19. This open access book, building on the legacy of food systems scholar and advocate Jerome Kaufman, examines the potential and pitfalls of planning for urban agriculture (UA) in the United States, especially in how questions of ethics and equity are addressed. The book is organized into six sections. Written by a team of scholars and practitioners, the book covers a comprehensive array of topics ranging from theory to practice of planning for equitable urban agriculture. Section 1 makes the case for reimagining agriculture as central to urban landscapes and unpacks why, how and when planning should support UA and more broadly food systems. Section 2, written by early career and seasoned scholars, provides a theoretical foundation for the book. Section 3, written by teams of scholars and community partners, examines how civic agriculture is unfolding across urban landscapes, led largely by community organizations Section 4 written by planning practitioners and scholars documents local government planning tied to urban agriculture focusing especially on how they address questions of equity Section 5 explores UA as a locus of pedagogy of equity Section 6 places the UA movement in the US within a global context and concludes with ideas and challenges for the future The book concludes with a call for planning as public nurturance an approach that can be illustrated through urban agriculture Planning as public nurturance is a value explicit process that centers an ethics of care especially protecting the interests of publics that are marginalized It builds the capacity of marginalized groups to authentically co design and participate in planning policy processes Such a planning approach requires that progress toward equitable outcomes is consistently evaluated through accountability measures And finally such an approach requires attention to structural and institutional inequities Addressing these four elements is more likely to create a condition under which urban agriculture may be used as a lever in the planning and development of more just and equitable cities This is an open access book This is an open access book      Bulletin of the Pan American Union Pan American Union, 1927
