Behind the Postcolonial Abidin Kusno, 2014-04-04 In Behind the Postcolonial Abidin Kusno shows how colonial representations have been revived and rearticulated in postcolonial Indonesia The book shows how architecture and urban space can be seen both historically and theoretically as representations of political and cultural tendencies that characterize an emerging as well as a declining social order It addresses the complex interactions between public memories of the present and past between images of global urban cultures and the concrete historical meanings of the local It shows how one might write a political history of postcolonial architecture and urban space that recognizes the political cultures of the present without neglecting the importance of the colonial past In the process it poses serious questions for the analysis and understanding of postcolonial states The Future of the World Jenny Andersson, 2018-07-19 The Future of the World is devoted to the intriguing field of study which emerged after World War Two futurism or futurology Jenny Andersson explains how futurist scholars and researchers imagined the Cold War and post Cold War world and the tools and methods they would use to influence and change that world Futurists were a motley crew of Cold War warriors nuclear scientists journalists and peace activists Some argued it should be a closed sphere of science defined by delimited probabilities They were challenged by alternative notions of the future as a potentially open realm Futurism also drew on an eclectic range of repertoires some of which were deduced from positivist social science mathematics and nuclear physics and some of which sprung from alternative forms of knowledge in science fiction journalism or religion These different forms of prediction laid very different claims to how accurately futures could be known and what kind of control could be exerted over what was yet to come The Future of the World carefully examines these different engagements with the future and inscribes them in the intellectual history of the post war period Using unexplored archival collections The Future of the World reconstructs the Cold War networks of futurologists and futurists Cassette Books Library of Congress. National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, 1978 Radical Pedagogies Beatriz Colomina, Ignacio G. Galán, Evangelos Kotsioris, Anna-Maria Meister, 2022-05-31 Experiments in architectural education in the post World War II era that challenged and transformed architectural discourse and practice In the decades after World War II new forms of learning transformed architectural education These radical experiments sought to upend disciplinary foundations and conventional assumptions about the nature of architecture as much as they challenged modernist and colonial norms decentered building imagined new roles for the architect and envisioned participatory forms of practice Although many of the experimental programs were subsequently abandoned terminated or assimilated they nevertheless helped shape and in some sense define architectural discourse and practice This book explores and documents these radical pedagogies and efforts to defy architecture s status quo The experiments include the adaptation of Bauhaus pedagogy as a means of unlearning under the conditions of decolonization in Africa a movement to design for every body including the disabled by architecture students and faculty at the University of California Berkeley the founding of a support network for women interested in the built environment regardless of their academic backgrounds and a design studio in the USSR that offered an alternative to the widespread functionalist approach in Soviet design Viewed through their dissolution and afterlife as well as through their founding stories these projects from the last century raise provocative questions about architecture s role in the new century Boom Byrne Hobart, Tobias Huber, 2024-11-19 A timely investigation of the causes of technological and scientific stagnation and a radical blueprint for accelerating innovation Read this book for the alternative history of our age Peter Thiel investor and author of Zero to One A must read for those who seek to build the future Marc Andreessen cofounder of Netscape and Andreessen Horowitz From the Moon landing to the dawning of the atomic age the decades prior to the 1970s were characterized by the routine invention of transformative technologies at breakneck speed By comparison ours is an age of stagnation Median wage growth has slowed inequality and income concentration are on the rise and scientific research has become increasingly expensive and incremental Why are we unable to replicate the rate of progress of past decades What can we do to reinvigorate innovation In Boom Byrne Hobart and Tobias Huber take an inductive approach to the problem In a series of case studies tracking some of the most significant breakthroughs of the past 100 years from the Manhattan Project and the Apollo program to fracking and Bitcoin they reverse engineer how transformative progress arises from small groups with a unified vision vast funding and surprisingly poor accountability They conclude that financial bubbles while often maligned as destructive and destabilizing forces have in fact been the engine of past breakthroughs and will drive future advances In other words Bubbles aren't all bad Integrating insights from economics philosophy and history Boom identifies the root causes of the Great Stagnation and provides a blueprint for accelerating innovation By decreasing collective risk aversion overfunding experimental processes and organizing high agency individuals around a transcendent mission bubbles are the key to realizing a future that is radically different from the present Boom offers a definite and optimistic vision of our future and a path to unleash a new era of global prosperity
