Mosley by Moonlight John Greenwood, 2012-07-19 Strange things are happening in the remote village of Hadley Dale Without warning a TV crew invades the district to shoot a commercial Without reason tales of extra terrestrial sightings spring up And without a clue Matthew Longden s robust housekeeper friend disappears in the same way his wife did five years ago Assigned to find the missing woman the unpredictable Mosley bicycles through the Lancashire countryside Side tracked by TV mischief makers cricket matches and rumours of a buried body Mosley is stopped in his leisurely tracks by a shocking death By prying information from the locals and raising hackles at headquarters deceptively brilliant Mosley soon unravels an intricate tapestry of delusions disappearances and death to neatly tie up a most malicious murder Here is the eagerly awaited sequel to Murder Mr Mosley the kind of solid sophisticated and adroitly plotted mystery that British authors do supremely well A rare good time Publishers Weekly John Greenwood makes Inspector Mosley a very real human being one with genuine authority despite his rural ways one who has the instincts of a bulldog and an occasional bite of sardonic humor New York Times John Greenwood is the pseudonym of John Buxton Hilton writer of both the Inspector Simon Kenworthy and Inspector Thomas Brunt series The Mystery Fancier \(Vol. 10 No. 3\) Summer 1988 Guy M.
