Contesting Antiquity in Egypt Donald Malcolm Reid, 2019-09-03 The history of the struggles for control over Egypt s antiquities and their repercussions during a period of intense national ferment The sensational discovery in 1922 of Tutankhamun s tomb close on the heels of Britain s declaration of Egyptian independence accelerated the growth in Egypt of both Egyptology as a formal discipline and of pharaonism popular interest in ancient Egypt as an inspiration in the struggle for full independence Emphasizing the three decades from 1922 until Nasser s revolution in 1952 this compelling follow up to Whose Pharaohs looks at the ways in which Egypt developed its own archaeologies Islamic Coptic and Greco Roman as well as the more dominant ancient Egyptian Each of these four archaeologies had given birth to and grown up around a major antiquities museum in Egypt Later Cairo Alexandria and Ain Shams universities joined in shaping these fields Contesting Antiquity in Egypt brings all four disciplines as well as the closely related history of tourism together in a single engaging framework Throughout this semi colonial era the British fought a prolonged rearguard action to retain control of the country while the French continued to dominate the Antiquities Service as they had since 1858 Traditional accounts highlight the role of European and American archaeologists in discovering and interpreting Egypt s long past Donald Reid redresses the balance by also paying close attention to the lives and careers of often neglected Egyptian specialists He draws attention not only to the contests between westerners and Egyptians over the control of antiquities but also to passionate debates among Egyptians themselves over pharaonism in relation to Islam and Arabism during a critical period of nascent nationalism Drawing on rich archival and published sources extensive interviews and material objects ranging from statues and murals to photographs and postage stamps this comprehensive study by one of the leading scholars in the field will make fascinating reading for scholars and students of Middle East history archaeology politics and museum and heritage studies as well as for the interested lay reader
