The Mother Machine Gena Corea,1988      Technology and Cultural Tectonics A. Hanson,2013-08-20 What impact has technology had on cultural meanings values and symbols This anthropological exploration shows how technologies produce novel and sometimes jarring realignments among cultural institutions      Birthrights Robert Lee,Derek Morgan,2003-09-02 First published in 2004 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company      States of Emergency Patricia Rodden Zimmermann,2000      Bioethics and Biopolitics in Israel Hagai Boas,Yael Hashiloni-Dolev,Nadav Davidovitch,Dani Filc,Shai J. Lavi,2018-01-11 Although the Israeli case of bioethics has been well documented this book offers a novel understanding of Israeli bioethics that is a milestone in the comparative literature of bioethics Bringing together a range of experts the book s interdisciplinary structure employs a contemporary sociopolitical oriented approach to bioethics issues with an emphasis on empirical analysis that will appeal not only to scholars of bioethics but also to students of law medicine humanities and social sciences around the world Its focus on the development of bioethics in Israel makes it especially relevant to scholars of Israeli society both in and out of Israel as well as medical practitioners and health policymakers in Israel      Regulating Creation Trudo Lemmens,Andrew Flavelle Martin,Cheryl Mine,Ian B. Lee,2017-01-01 Regulating Creation is a collection of essays featuring contributions by Canadian and international scholars It offers a variety of perspectives on the role of law in dealing with the legal ethical and policy issues surrounding changing reproductive technologies      Women, Medicine, Ethics and the Law Susan Sherwin,Barbara Parish,2020-09-10 This title was first published in 2002 A collection of articles focused on women within a general study of medicine ethics and the law Topics covered include areas where the institutions of medicine ethics and the law intersect in women s reproductive and sexual lives the impact of legal policies and dominant ethical beliefs on many aspects of women s health and the health practices and policies of bioethics and health law The editors recognise that it is important not to lose sight of social differences other than gender such as race ethnicity class age sexuality religion level of physical and mental ability and family relationships In their approach they seek to consider the lives and experiences of women as primary Hence they focus on the question of how women s encounters with the health care system are structured by gender and other socially significant dimensions of their lives rather than the question of how women differ from the male norm      Assisting Reproduction, Testing Genes Daphna Birenbaum-Carmeli,Marcia C. Inhorn,2009 Following the routinization of assisted reproduction in the industrialized world technologies such as in vitro fertilization preimplantation genetic diagnosis and DNA based paternity testing have traveled globally and are now being offered to couples in numerous non Western countries This volume explores the application and impact of these advanced reproductive and genetic technologies in societies across the globe By highlighting both the cross cultural similarities and diverse meanings that technologies may assume as they enter multiple contexts the book aims to foster understanding of both the technologies and the settings Enhanced by cross cultural perspectives the book addresses the challenges that globalization presents to local understandings of science technology and medicine

Experimental Subjectivities in Global Black Women's Writing Sheldon George, Jean Wyatt, 2024-08-22 In what innovative ways do novels by diasporic Black women writers experiment with the representation of Black subjectivity This collection explores the inventiveness of contemporary Black women writers Black British African Caribbean African American who remake traditional understandings of blackness As the title word experimental signals these essays foreground the narrative form and stylistic innovations of the black authored novels they analyze They also show how these experiments with form mirror the novels convention breaking experiments with reimagining Black female subjectivities While each novel of course represents the complexities of diasporic experiences differently some issues emerge that are broadly shared not just within a regional group but across geographical borders One feature of the collection is a comparative look at such linking themes across borders under the rubrics a return to precolonial systems of belief reinventions of mothering relational subjectivities memory history and haunting and posthumanist revaluations These themes take different shapes across the multitude of diverse cultures studied in this book But together they establish a pan global imaginative practice

Our Bodies, Whose Property? Anne Phillips, 2013-07-21 An argument against treating our bodies as commodities No one wants to be treated like an object regarded as an item of property or put up for sale Yet many people frame personal autonomy in terms of self ownership representing themselves as property owners with the right to do as they wish with their bodies Others do not use the language of property but are similarly insistent on the rights of free individuals to decide for themselves whether to engage in commercial transactions for sex reproduction or organ sales Drawing on analyses of rape surrogacy and markets in human organs Our Bodies Whose Property challenges notions of freedom based on ownership of our bodies and argues against the normalization of markets in bodily services and parts Anne Phillips explores the risks associated with metaphors of property and the reasons why the commodification of the body remains problematic What she asks is wrong with thinking of oneself as the owner of one's body What is wrong with making our bodies available for rent or sale What if anything is the difference between markets in sex reproduction or human body parts and the other markets we commonly applaud Phillips contends that body markets occupy the outer edges of a continuum that is in some way a feature of all labor markets But she also emphasizes that we all have bodies and considers the implications of this otherwise banal fact for equality Bodies remind us of shared vulnerability alerting us to the common experience of living as embodied beings in the same world Examining the complex issue of body exceptionalism Our Bodies Whose Property demonstrates that treating the body as property makes human equality harder to comprehend

The SAGE Handbook of Health Care Ethics Ruth Chadwick, Henk ten Have, Eric M. Meslin, 2011-02-07 The SAGE Handbook of Healthcare Ethics is an influential collection of work by leading scholars on the fundamental and emerging themes which define healthcare ethics This authoritative Handbook brings together experts with backgrounds in philosophy sociology law public policy and the health professions and reflects the increasing impact of globalization and the dynamic advances in the fields of bioscience and genetics which keep ethics at the centre of debates about the future direction of healthcare Combining international and interdisciplinary perspectives the Handbook provides a cutting edge account of debates in five key areas Health Care Ethics in an Era of Globalization Beginning and End of Life Vulnerable Populations Research Ethics and Technologies Public Health and Human Rights     Ectogenesis ,2006-01-01 This book raises many moral legal social and political questions related to possible development in the near future of an artificial womb for human use Is ectogenesis ever morally permissible If so under what circumstances Will ectogenesis enhance or diminish women s reproductive rights and or their economic opportunities These are some of the difficult and crucial questions this anthology addresses and attempts to answer

Transnational Reproduction Daisy Deomampo,2016-09-27 Transnational Reproduction traces the relationships among Western aspiring parents Indian surrogates and egg donors from around the world In the early 2010s India was one of the top providers of surrogacy services in the world Drawing on interviews with commissioning parents surrogates and egg donors as well as doctors and family members Daisy Deomampo argues that while the surrogacy industry in India offers a clear example of stratified reproduction the ways in which political economic and social forces structure the conditions under which women carry out physical and social reproductive labor it also complicates that concept as the various actors in this reproductive work struggle to understand their relationships to one another The book shows how these actors make sense of their connections illuminating the ways in which kinship ties are challenged transformed or reinforced in the context of transnational gestational surrogacy The volume revisits the concept of stratified reproduction in ways that offer a more robust and nuanced understanding of race and power as ideas about kinship intersect with structures of inequality It demonstrates that while reproductive actors share a common quest for conception they make sense of family in the context of globalized assisted reproductive technologies in very different ways In doing so Deomampo uncovers the specific racial reproductive imaginaries that underpin the unequal relations at the heart of transnational surrogacy     Canada in the Global Village Heather Menzies,1997-09-15 This text provides an inter disciplinary critique of the new global economy and information society tracing its roots in the infrastructures of Canada s development from the canoes and ships of the fur trade through the railways and telegraph of industrialization to mass print media radio television and film distribution It draws on the works of four key thinkers Ursula Franklin George Grant Harold Innis and Marshall McLuhan to frame contributions from Pat Armstrong Ellen Balka Robert Babe Pam Colorado James Carey and many others     The Virtual Embodied John Wood,2002-02-07 The Virtual Embodied is intended to inform provoke and delight It explores the ideas of embodiment knowledge space virtue and virtuality to address fundamental questions about technology and human presence It juxtaposes cutting edge theories polemics and creative practices to uncover ethical aesthetic and ecological implications of why how and in particular where human actions observations and insights take place In The Virtual Embodied many of the authors artists performers and designers apply their interdisciplinary passions to questions of embodied knowledge and virtual space In doing so it chooses to acknowledge the limitations of the conventional linear book and uses them creatively to challenge existing genres of multi media and networked consumerism First Do No Harm Professor Sheila A M McLean,2013-02-28 This collection brings together essays from leading figures in the field of medical law and ethics which address the key issues currently challenging scholars in the field It has also been compiled as a lasting testimony to the work of one of the most eminent scholars in the area Professor Ken Mason The collection marks the academic crowning of a career which has laid one of the foundation stones of an entire discipline The wide ranging contents and the standing of the contributors mean that the volume will be an invaluable resource for anyone studying or working in medical law or medical ethics

The Routledge Handbook of Gender and Development Anne Coles,Leslie Gray,Janet Momsen,2015-02-20 The Routledge Handbook of Gender and Development provides a comprehensive statement and reference point for gender and development policy making and practice in an international and multi disciplinary context Specifically it provides critical reviews and appraisals of the current state of gender and development and considers future trends It includes theoretical and practical approaches as well as empirical studies The international reach and scope of the Handbook and the contributors experiences allow engagement with and reflection upon these bridging and linking themes as well as the examining the politics and policy of how we think about and practice gender and development Organized into eight inter related sections the Handbook contains over 50 contributions from leading scholars looking at conceptual and theoretical approaches environmental resources poverty and families women and health related services migration and mobility the effect of civil and international conflict and international economies and development This Handbook provides a wealth of interdisciplinary information and will appeal to students and practitioners in Geography Development Studies Gender Studies and related disciplines

Surrogate Motherhood Martha A. Field,2009-07-01 With an Expanded Appendix on the Current Legal Status of Surrogacy Arrangements A practice known since Biblical times surrogate motherhood has only recently leaped to prominence as a way of providing babies for childless couples and leaped to notoriety through the dramatic case of Baby M Contract surrogacy is officially little more than ten years old but by 1986 five hundred babies had been born to mothers who gave them up to sperm donor fathers for a fee and the practice is growing rapidly Martha Field examines the myriad legal complexities that today enmesh surrogate motherhood and also looks beyond existing legal rules to ask what society wants from surrogacy A man s desire to be a biological parent even when his wife is infertile the father s wife usually adopts the child has led to this new kind of family and modern technology could further extend surrogacy s appeal by making gestational surrogates available to couples who provide both egg and sperm But is surrogacy a form of babyselling Is the practice a private matter covered by contract law or does adoption law govern Is it good or bad social and public policy to leave surrogacy unregulated Should the law allow encourage discourage or prohibit surrogate motherhood Ultimately the answers will depend on what the American public wants In the difficult process of sorting out such vexing questions Martha Field has written a landmark book Showing that the problem is rather too much applicable law than too little she discusses contract law and constitutional law custody and adoption law and the rights of biological fathers as well as the laws governing sperm donation Competing values are involved all along the legal and social spectrum Field suggests that a federal prohibition would be most effective if banning surrogacy is the aim but federal prohibition might not be chosen for a variety of reasons a preference for regulating surrogacy instead of driving it underground a preference for allowing regulation and variation by state or a respect for the interests of people who want to enter surrogacy arrangements Since the law can support a wide variety of positions Field offers one that seems best to reconcile the competing values at stake Whether or not paid surrogacy is made illegal she suggests that a surrogate mother retain the option of abiding by or canceling the contract up to the time she freely gives the child to the adopting couple And if she cancels the contract she should be entitled to custody without having to prove in court that she would be a better parent than the father      Pregnancy and Birth Keisha L. Goode, Barbara Katz Rothman, 2021-06-18 Pregnancy and Birth A Reference Handbook provides students with information too often ignored in sex education on what pregnancy and birth are have been and can be as transformative personal and social events Pregnancy and Birth A Reference Handbook is a person centered reference book on pregnancy and childbirth in the United States The medicalization of pregnancy and childbirth is a theme however primary emphasis is on the historical and contemporary significance of the Midwifery Model of Care and how that can improve outcomes for all The volume opens with a background and history of the topic followed by a chapter on related problems controversies and solutions A Perspectives chapter contains essays from a variety of individuals who are invested in the topic of pregnancy and birth The remaining chapters provide students with additional information such as profiles data and documents resources a chronology and a glossary This book is accessible to high school and college level researchers as well as general interest readers curious about the topic      In Search Of Parenthood Judith Lasker, Susan Borg, 2010-06 Gripping personal and professional accounts of methods of conception for everyone coping with infertility
