Browne, Ben Urish, 2014-03-26 The Dynamics of Interconnections in Popular Culture s is an eclectic and free ranging collection of articles grounded in a combination of the social sciences with the populist humanities The collection is further unified by an approach that considers changes and linkages within and between cultural systems as evidenced through their respective popular cultures. The key underlying assumption is that our collective popular expressions create an arena of global cultural exchange further precipitating new cultural adaptations, expressions and connections. The volume is divided into two sections. The first consists of articles investigating theoretical and methodological approaches to the dynamics of history and cultural changes. These include cultural anthropology, history, economics and sociology. The second section is made up of explorations into a myriad of cultural practices and expressions that exemplify not only the wide diversity of popular cultures and their workings but also the interconnections between and within those cultural systems. A wide variety of specific case studies are presented to evidence and support the more general points made in the previous section. The collection demonstrates that the everyday lives of ordinary people while varying from culture to culture are unified through their expressions of shared humanity.

Foreword by Gary Hoppenstand Dispositions Arthur L. Costa, Bena Kallick, 2014. From the authors of the best-selling Habits of Mind. A costly gap exists between what we claim to value as educational essentials and how we evaluate results. In Dispositions, Arthur L. Costa and Bena Kallick present a game-changing look at why and how to mind the gap. The authors' Habits of Mind writings have influenced educational policy worldwide. Dispositions incorporates new cognitive science that shows how influencing students' mental habits is their key to finding meaning in classroom content. Topics include: Making dispositions come alive in the minds of students; Shifting the thinking of educational leaders, parents, politicians and the public; How to align day-to-day classroom practices with larger dispositional outcomes; Featuring techniques for integrating dispositional learning into the Common Core. Dispositions is Costa and Kallick's most indispensable work on 21st Century learning. Education must include the development of the human elements in our children. Costa and Kallick present a reasonable, practical and positive alternative: the cultivation of dispositional thinking, the very core of being human. Foreword by Yong Zhao The Dynamics of Dementia Communication Alison Wray, 2020-03-19. WINNER of the 2021 British Association for Applied Linguistics Book Prize. It is well recognized that when people are living with a dementia, effective communication can be a challenge for both them and those they interact with. Despite a plethora of good advice, it can be surprisingly hard to sustain constructive communicative behaviours and to integrate them successfully into routine daily care and interaction. The Dynamics of Dementia Communication asks why that is. What is it about communication as a human social and cognitive practice that makes it so difficult to manage the disruptions caused by dementia? Why is it so common to feel awkward, confused or irritated when talking with a person living with a dementia? Why is the experience of living with a dementia so personally and socially devastating? What approaches to communication would work best and why? To answer these questions, the book integrates information from a wide range of different sources covering the biological, social and emotional factors associated with the dementia experience. New concepts and theoretical perspectives offer novel ways of thinking about the challenges of communication generally and in the context of dementia. Topics explored include whether it is acceptable to deceive people living with a dementia and why society's failure to support people living with a dementia and their carers is so devastating The final chapter suggests what people living with a dementia need if communication is to promote and protect everyone's well-being By providing a deeper understanding of what topples the best intentioned attempts at interaction and by explaining why poor communication affects everyone involved this book sets new agendas for improving the welfare of people living with a dementia their families and professional carers

Pragmatics in Dementia Discourse Boyd H. Davis, Jacqueline Guendouzi, Reyes Gómez Morón, 2014-07-08 Alison Wray notes that Alzheimer's Disease affects language in many different ways Directly language processing is undermined by damage to the language areas of the brain Indirectly language is compromised by short-term memory loss distortions in perception and disturbed semantic representation All of this makes AD an obvious focus of interest for linguists and in particular those interested in the field of pragmatics yet a striking amount of what is published about AD language is written by non-linguists AD language is independently researched in at least psychology neuroscience sociology clinical linguistics and nursing Each discipline has its own methods theories assumptions and values which affect the research questions asked the empirical approach taken in answering them and how the evidence is interpreted Without a more reliable holistic picture informed by linguistic and applied linguistic theory and methods approaches to diagnosis and care risk being constrained and may result in a less than satisfactory experience for all those whose daily life involves the direct or indirect experience of AD This book is an attempt to address some of the above issues noted by bringing together a group of researchers whose work focuses on interaction in the context of dementia The authors represent the fields of linguistics clinical linguistics nursing and speech pathology and each chapter draws on methods associated with discourse analysis and pragmatics to examine how people with dementia utilize language in the presence of cognitive decline In addition the book seeks to generate academic discussion on how researchers can move forward to focus greater attention on this topic In particular this collection will inspire researchers involved in mainstream theoretical linguistics and pragmatics to turn their attention to the discourse of dementia and investigate what it has to say about our knowledge of language theories and in addition to challenge what we know about ourselves as subjective beings

Differences That Matter Dan Zuberi, 2018-07-05 This book shines a spotlight on the causes and consequences of working poverty revealing how the lives of low-wage workers are affected by differences in health care labor and social welfare policy in the United States and Canada Dan Zuberi's conclusions are based on survey data eighteen months of participant observation fieldwork and in depth interviews with seventy seven hotel employees working in parallel jobs on both sides of the border. Two hotel chains each with one union and one non union hotel in Seattle and Vancouver provide a vivid crossnational comparison because they are similar in so many regards the one major exception being government policy. Zuberi demonstrates how labor health social welfare and public investment policy affect these hotel workers and their families. His book challenges the myth that globalization necessarily means hospitality jobs must be insecure and pay poverty wages and makes clear the critical role played by government policy in the reduction of poverty and creation of economic equality. Zuberi shows exactly where and how the social policies that distinguish the Canadian welfare state from the U S version make a difference in protecting Canadian workers from the hardships that burden low wage workers in the United States. Differences That Matter which is filled with first person accounts ends with policy recommendations and a call for grassroots community organizing.
