Pushing Boundaries Language And Culture In A Mexicano Community:

Pushing Boundaries Olga A. Vásquez, Lucinda Pease-Alvarez, Sheila M. Shannon, 1994-05-27 Children in Mexicano communities learn to use language in a variety of ways At times they use both Spanish and English in the same conversation or help friends and family members enter mainstream society by translating English to Spanish for them Pushing Boundaries describes Eastside a Mexicano community in northern California analysing language learning and language socialization in the context of real problematic important activities in people s lives The authors consolidate three separate studies providing a unique perspective on the ways bilingual children and their families use and learn language With children using the language of home school and community separately and in combination the book reveals how these children use their traditional language and cultural knowledge as a critical component for learning their second language and its underlying cultural norms

La Clase M gica Olga A. Vasquez, 2013-10-11 La Clase M gica Imagining Optimal Possibilities in a Bilingual Community of Learners vividly captures the social and intellectual developments and the promises of an ongoing after school project called La Clase M gica It is a blow by blow description of the early transformations of a project that began as an educational activity and slowly but deliberately turned into a social action project whose aim was to serve those with low economic and political means and little access to educational resources This multivocal account details research in action for effectively serving Spanish English bilingual speakers from a Mexican origin community as well as on a broader level the diverse populations that increasingly characterize American society today The focus is on the early foundational work of the project between 1989 1996 though attention is also given to the national and international recognition the project has subsequently received the college going patterns of its long term participants and the transplantation of the project to other cultural communities The book speaks out from the zones of contact between the university and a language minority community about new ways to extend and intersect theory and practice in many areas of the educational enterprise Contact is defined not only in the physical sense of face to face interaction but also as symbolic interaction between languages cultures histories and epistemologies Thus V Squez speaks of optimal possibilities situated in the middle grounds or more technically speaking in the borders between Spanish and English Mexican and mainstream culture minority and majority designations and between school and community contexts where contact is made and new arrangements are imagined This account uses the reflections of participants at times to take readers from the scientific to the everyday to make real and concrete the theoretical conceptualizations that box in human behavior In this way it defines the theories methods and philosophies for linking multiple disciplines institutions and participant groups into a concerted effort with potential to reframe the educational opportunities of under served populations A close look is provided into the intricacies and the fundamental principles for building and sustaining effective learning environments and institutional relations necessary for enhancing the potential of learners of all ages In the process the book also suggests ways in which community members and institutional agents can play an active and integral role in creating learning opportunities that serve both constituencies Educators and policymakers will find the systems approach for pursuing parent and community involvement in the educational enterprise useful In sum the book offers researchers practitioners and policymakers much needed guidance insight and perhaps inspiration for rethinking educational goals and objectives

Urban Education Karen Symms Gallagher, Rodney Goodyear, Dominic Brewer, Robert Rueda, 2013-03-19 Many factors complicate the education of urban students Among them have been issues related to population density racial ethnic cultural and linguistic diversity poverty racism individual and institutional and funding levels Although urban educators have been addressing these issues for decades placing them under the umbrella of urban education and treating them as a specific area of practice and inquiry is relatively recent Despite the wide adoption of the term a consensus about its meaning exists at only the broadest of levels In short urban education remains an ill defined concept This comprehensive volume addresses this definitional challenge and provides a 3 part conceptual model in which the achievement of equity for all regardless of race gender or ethnicity is an ideal that is central to urban education The model also posits that effective urban education requires attention to the three central issues that confronts all education systems a accountability of individuals and the institutions in which they work b leadership which occurs in multiple ways and at multiple levels and c learning which is the raison d tre of education Just as a three legged stool would fall if any one leg were weak or missing each of these areas is essential to effective urban education and affects the others

Claims, Changes and Challenges in Translation Studies Gyde Hansen, Kirsten Malmkjaer, Daniel Gile, 2004-05-28

The volume contains a selection of papers both theoretical and empirical from the European Society for Translation Studies EST Congress held in Copenhagen in September 2001. The EST Congresses held every three years in a different country reflect current ideas, theories, and studies covering the whole range of Translation, both oral and written, and the papers collected here, authored by both experienced and young translation scholars, provide an up-to-date picture of some concerns in the field. Topics covered include translation universals, linguistic approaches to translation, translation strategies, quality and assessment issues, screen translation, the translation of humor, terminological issues, translation and related professions, translation and ideology, language brokering by children, Robert Schumann's relation to translation, directionality in translation and interpreting, community interpreting in Italy, issues in interpreting for refugees, notes in consecutive interpreting, interpreting prosody, and frequent weaknesses in translation papers in the context of the editorial process.

The Light in Their Eyes Sonia Nieto, 2015-04-26. In this 10th Anniversary Edition of her popular text, Sonia Nieto reviews where we have been and where we should be going in our pursuit of creating multicultural learning communities in our schools. With a new Introductory Chapter and a new Epilogue, Nieto addresses some of the changes we have experienced during the past decade that help explain the current sociopolitical environment: our increasing diversity, the altering conditions in schools and in society, the influence of poverty on learning, and the impact of NCLB on classrooms and schools. This updated edition of The Light in Their Eyes focuses on the significant role of teachers in transforming students' lives. It considers recent theories, policies, and practices about the variability in student learning and culturally responsive pedagogy. It examines the importance of student and teacher voice in research and practice. It provides an update in their own words on former students whose journal entries were included in the first edition. In search of a critical community, Sonia Nieto combines respect for what children bring to school with a desire to awaken each one and tap into their passion for learning. This classic work radiates with the sensitivity Sonia Nieto is known for in all her work. Maxine Greene, Professor Emerita, Teachers College, Columbia University, Praise for the First Edition: A spirited, provocative defense of multicultural education. Choice. In this important and thought-provoking book, Sonia Nieto reaffirms her reputation as one of the leading theorists in multicultural education. Rethinking Schools. Perhaps once every 5 years, one is fortunate enough to read a scholarly book that is as hard to put down as a good novel yet is brimming with profound insights on virtually every page. Nieto has written such a book. TESOL Quarterly. Offers a comprehensive and convincing argument for multicultural education. Harvard Education Review. For educators in a multicultural program and for veteran and novice teachers, Nieto's book would be invaluable. Childhood Education. Sonia Nieto is Professor Emerita at the University of Massachusetts Amherst. She is the author of the bestselling books Why We Teach and What Keeps Teachers Going. The Cultural Production of the Educated Person Bradley A. Levinson, Douglas E. Foley, Dorothy C. Holland, 1996-03-07. Eleven historical ethnographic case studies examine the social and cultural projects of modern schools and the contestations dramatic and not that emerge in and around and against them These case studies ranging from Taiwan to South Texas build upon an original joining of anthropology critical education theory and cultural studies The studies advance the concept of cultural production as a way of understanding the dynamics of power and identity formation underlying different forms of education Using the concept of the educated person as a culture specific construct the authors examine conflicts and points of convergence between cultural practices and knowledges that are produced in and out of schools

Funds of Knowledge Norma Gonzalez,Luis C. Moll,Cathy Amanti,2006-04-21 The concept of funds of knowledge is based on a simple premise people are competent and have knowledge and their life experiences have given them that knowledge The claim in this book is that first hand research experiences with families allow one to document this competence and knowledge and that such engagement provides many possibilities for positive pedagogical actions Drawing from both Vygotskian and neo sociocultural perspectives in designing a methodology that views the everyday practices of language and action as constructing knowledge the funds of knowledge approach facilitates a systematic and powerful way to represent communities in terms of the resources they possess and how to harness them for classroom teaching This book accomplishes three objectives It gives readers the basic methodology and techniques followed in the contributors funds of knowledge research it extends the boundaries of what these researchers have done and it explores the applications to classroom practice that can result from teachers knowing the communities in which they work In a time when national educational discourses focus on system reform and wholesale replicability across school sites this book offers a counter perspective stating that instruction must be linked to students lives and that details of effective pedagogy should be linked to local histories and community contexts This approach should not be confused with parent participation programs although that is often a fortuitous consequence of the work described It is also not an attempt to teach parents how to do school although that could certainly be an outcome if the parents so desired Instead the funds of knowledge approach attempts to accomplish something that may be even more challenging to alter the perceptions of working class or poor communities by viewing their households primarily in terms of their strengths and resources their defining pedagogical characteristics Funds of Knowledge Theorizing Practices in Households Communities and Classrooms is a critically important volume for all teachers and teachers to be and for researchers and graduate students of language culture and education

Language, Power, and Pedagogy Jim Cummins,2000-01-01 As linguistic diversity increases in countries around the world policy makers and educators are faced with complex and conflictual issues regarding appropriate ways of educating a multilingual school population This volume reviews the research and theory relating to instruction and assessment of bilingual pupils focusing not only on issues of language learning and teaching but also the ways in which power relations in the wider society affect patterns of teacher pupil interaction in the classroom

Children, Language, and Literacy Celia Genishi,Anne Haas Dyson,2015-04-18 Synopsis In their new collaboration Celia Genishi and Anne Haas

Dyson celebrate the genius of young children as they learn language and literacy in the diverse contexts that surround them Despite burgeoning sociocultural diversity many early childhood classrooms pre K to grade 2 offer a one size fits all curriculum too often assessed by standardized tests In contrast the authors propose diversity as the new norm They feature stories of children whose language learning is impossible to standardize and they introduce teachers who do not follow scripts but observe assess informally respond to and grow with their children Among these children are rapid language learners and those who take their time to become speakers readers and writers at child speed All these learners regardless of tempo are often found within the language rich contexts of play

Supporting Newcomer Students Katharine Davies Samway, Lucinda Pease-Alvarez, Laura Alvarez, 2020-05-19 Copublished with TESOL Press Newcomers need to draw on all their resources intellectual linguistic cultural as they make sense of new content and a new language In this much needed book the authors marshal research and several decades of their own experience to provide instructional practices and activities that will help teachers develop newcomers as readers and writers of English and engage them in content learning across the curriculum Equally important they show how teachers can advocate for these vulnerable students many of whom have experienced multiple challenges in their home countries or in the United States including poverty violence and political persecution With chapters on assessment and second language acquisition as well as reading writing speaking and content learning their book is a timely and comprehensive guide for any K 8 educator whose classroom or school includes newcomer students

Labelling Identity Rosila Bee Mohd Hussain, 2021-06-07 Over the last decade Malay ethnic identity has taken on new life compared to religious identity in and outside Malaysia This book explores key emblematic features of ethnic and religious identity and the idea of Malayness in Australia at a time when Islamic identity has gained prominence on the global stage The author explores topics such as Religion as a powerful basis of personal and collective identification for Malay Muslim postgraduate students in Western Australia Experiences of Malay Muslim postgraduate students and their relation to Islamic values Islamic revivalism and the middle class Ethnic and religious factors related to interpersonal communication Other studies on Malays in Australia tend to focus on the past instead of the problems that new Malays possibly going to face when they reach the continent This book overcomes that limitation and makes headway in addressing cultural differences related to identity ethnicity and religion

International Handbook of Virtual Learning Environments Joel Weiss, Jason Nolan, Jeremy Hunsinger, Peter Trifonas, 2007-11-24 Three issues are explored and used as organizers for The International Handbook of Virtual Learning Environments First a distinction is made between virtual learning and learning virtually Second since the focus is on learning an educational framework is developed as a means of bringing coherence to the available literature Third learning is defined broadly as a process of knowledge creation for transforming experience to reflect different facets of the curriculum of life The Handbook is divided into four sections Foundations of Virtual Learning Environments Schooling Professional Learning and Knowledge Management Out of School Learning Environments and

Challenges for Virtual Learning Environments A variety of chapters representing different academic and professional fields are included These chapters cover topics ranging from philosophical perspectives historical sociological political and educational analyses case studies from practical and research settings as well as several provocative classics originally published in other settings

ReWRITING the Basics Anne Haas Dyson, 2013 What are the real basics of writing how should they be taught and what do they look like in children's worlds In her new book Anne Haas Dyson shows how highly scripted writing curricula and regimented class routines work against young children's natural social learning processes Readers will have a front row seat in Mrs Bee's kindergarten and Mrs Kay's 1st grade class where these dedicated teachers taught writing basics in schools serving predominately low income children of color The children it turns out had their own expectations for one another's actions during writing time Driven by desires for companionship and meaning they used available linguistic and multimodal resources to construct their shared lives In so doing they stretch enrich and ultimately transform our own understandings of the basics ReWRITING the Basics goes beyond critiquing traditional writing basics to place them in the linguistic diversity and multimodal texts of children's everyday worlds This engaging work Illustrates how scripted uniform curricula can reduce the resources of so called at risk children Provides insight into how children may situate writing within the relational ethics and social structures of childhood cultures Offers guiding principles for creating a program that will expand children's possibilities in ways that are compatible with human sociability Includes examples of children's writing reflections on research methods and demographic tables Dyson's ethnographies offer new ways of thinking about writing time and remind us of the importance of play talk and social relationships in children's literacy learning If every literacy researcher could write like Dyson teachers would want to read about research If policymakers took her insights on board classrooms might become more respectful and enjoyable spaces for literacy teaching and learning that soar way above the basics Barbara Comber Queensland University of Technology Australia
