Rocky Shores Exploitation In Chile And South Africa Ecological Studies:

Rocky Shores: Exploitation in Chile and South Africa W. Roy Siegfried, 2013-03-07 It seems almost trite to introduce this book by saying that man has been exploiting the intertidal zone for food for a long time Just how long nobody knows for sure but the prehistoric inhabitants of Terra Amata on the Mediterranean coast near Nice ate marine intertidal animals at least 300 000 years ago Similar impressive evidence going back to at least 100000 years exists for prehistoric man s consumption of intertidal animals along the South African coast However early man s dependence on intertidal resources probably goes back much further in time During the last 2 million or so years temperate Eurasia experienced some 20 glaciations interspersed by warm equable periods Different modes of life were open to man in colonizing the northern temperate zone One was to become a big game hunter specializing for example on mammoths the other to exploit marine intertidal resources Of the two probably the shoreline offered an easier environment for an original scavenging food gatherer Human

Impacts on Ancient Marine Ecosystems Torben C. Rick, Jon M. Erlandson, 2008-04-29 An excellent volume with mature sophisticated comprehensive research by leaders in the fields of archaeology zooarchaeology and paleoarchaeology that will be useful to scientists of many interests David Steadman author of Extinction and Biogeography of Tropical Pacific Birds This volume will make a significant contribution to our understanding of ancient human impacts on marine ecosystems which will be of interest to all researchers who are concerned about the environment The editors and contributors are commended for their efforts on this significant research topic Steven R James coeditor of The Archaeology of Global Change The Impact of Humans on Their Environment Food Webs and the Dynamics of Marine Reefs Tim McClanahan, George

Branch, 2008-04-16 Biologists have made significant advances in our understanding of the Earth s shallow subtidal marine ecosystems but the findings on these disparate regions have never before been documented and gathered in a single volume Now in Food Webs and the Dynamics of Marine Reefs Tim R McClanahan and George M Branch fill this lacuna with a comparative and comprehensive collection of nine essays written by experts on specific aquatic regions Each essay focuses on the food webs of a respective ecosystem and the factors affecting these communities from the intense and direct pressure of human influence on fisheries to the multi vector contributors to climate change The book covers nine shallow water marine ecosystems from selected areas throughout the world four coral reef systems three hard bottom systems and two kelp systems In summarizing their organization human influence on them and recent developments in these ecosystems the authors contribute to our understanding of their ecological organization and management Food Webs and the Dynamics of Marine Reefs will be a useful tool for all benthic marine investigators providing an expert comparative view of these aquatic regions Freshwaters of Alaska Alexander M. Milner, Mark W. Oswood, 2012-12-06 Alaska s great size is mirrored by the large number and diversity of its freshwater ecosystems This volume reviews and synthesizes research on a variety of Alaskan freshwaters including lakes rivers and wetlands The vast range of Alaskan habitats ensures that the chapters in this

Sorokin, 2013-03-12 Coral reef communities are among the most complex mature and productive ecosystems on earth Their activity resulted in the creation of vast lime constructions Being extremely productive and having the function of a powerful biofilter coral reefs play an important role in global biogeochemical processes and in the reproduction of food resources in tropical marine regions All aspects of coral reef science are covered systematically and on the basis of a holistic ecosystem approach The geological history of coral reefs their geomorphology as well as biology including community structure of reef biota their functional characteristics physiological aspects biogeochemical metabolism energy balance environmental problems and management of resources are treated in detail Landscape Function and Disturbance in Arctic Tundra James F. Reynolds, John D. Tenhunen, 2013-04-17 Following the discovery of large petroleum reserves in northern Alaska the US Department of Energy implemented an integrated field and modeling study to help define potential impacts of energy related disturbances on tundra ecosystems This volume presents major findings from this study A broad range of basic and applied research topics are examined ranging from ecosystem physiology and biogeochemistry to landscape models that quantify the impact of road building on tundra hydrology and ecosystem structure It is an important resource for researchers and students interested in arctic ecology as well as for environmental managers concerned with practical issues of disturbances Ecology of Mediterranean Evergreen Oak Forests Ferran Roda, Javier Retana, Carlos A. Gracia, Juan Bellot, 2012-12-06 Used by humans since ancient times evergreen oak forests still cover extensive mountain areas of the Mediterranean Basin These broadleaved evergreen forests occupy a transitional zone between the cool temperate deciduous forest biome and the drier Mediterranean pine forests and shrublands Slow growing and casting a deep shade the sclerophyllous holm oak Quercus ilex absolutely dominates the closed canopy of many Mediterranean evergreen oak forests This is a synthesis of 20 years of research on the structure function and dynamics of holm oak forests in two intensively studied experimental areas in Spain By combining observational measurements at the leaf tree plot and catchment scales with field experiments and modelling the authors explore how these forests cope with strong water limitation and repeated disturbances Landscape Disturbance and Biodiversity in Mediterranean-Type Ecosystems Philip W. Rundel, Gloria Montenegro, Fabian M. Jaksic, 2013-04-17 Human impact on natural landscapes through urbanization and agricultural expansion are becoming more and more dramatic and are the cause of serious environmental problems This volume examines the effect of landscape disturbance on plant and animal diversity in the five mediterranean climate regions of the world It begins with three introductory chapters broadly reviewing the issues of landscape degradation Further contributions describe regional land use conflicts in each of the five regions Landscape disturbance and plant diversity and landscape disturbance and animal diversity are treated in separate chapters Four contributions deal with demography and ecophysiology in vegetation succession following disturbance The volume closes with a consideration of the future addressing aspects of environmental politics
