Sustaining Faith Traditions Carolyn Chen, Russell Jeung, 2012-07-06 Over fifty years ago Will Herberg theorized that future immigrants to the United States would no longer identify themselves through their races or ethnicities or through the languages and cultures of their home countries Rather modern immigrants would base their identities on their religions The landscape of U S immigration has changed dramatically since Herberg first published his theory Most of today s immigrants are Asian or Latino and are thus unable to shed their racial and ethnic identities as rapidly as the Europeans about whom Herberg wrote And rather than a flexible labor based economy hungry for more workers today s immigrants find themselves in a post industrial segmented economy that allows little in the way of class mobility In this comprehensive anthology contributors draw on ethnography and in depth interviews to examine the experiences of the new second generation the children of Asian and Latino immigrants Covering a diversity of second generation religious communities including Christians Hindus Buddhists Muslims and Jews the contributors highlight the ways in which race ethnicity and religion intersect for new Americans As the new second generation of Latinos and Asian Americans comes of age they will not only shape American race relations but also the face of American religion
