Kimble, 2014-02-04 Use Frankl's insights and techniques to improve life for your aging clients or parishioners Viktor Frankl a holocaust survivor who experienced firsthand the horrors of Auschwitz saw man as a being who continuously decides what he is a being who equally harbors the potential to descend to the level of an animal or to ascend to the life of a saint Man is that being who after all invented the gas chambers but at the same time he is that being who entered into those same gas chambers with his head held high and with the Our Father or the Jewish prayer of the dying on his lips Dr Frankl's insights led him to found the therapeutic system of logotherapy which views man as a spiritual being rather than simply as a biological construct Logotherapy has come to be called the Third Viennese School of Psychotherapy after Freud's psychoanalysis and Adler's individual psychology He left a rich legacy of theory and insights especially relevant to the search for meaning in later life The tenets of logotherapy provide many clues and approaches to what an ever increasing body of evidence suggests regarding the crisis of aging as a crisis of meaning Frankl's insightful work increased man's understanding of the spiritual dimension of humanity and the dignity and worth of every person in the face of what he called the tragic triad of human existence pain guilt and death Viktor Frankl's Contribution to Spirituality and Aging presents an essential overview of logotherapy and explores the search for and the will to meaning in later life the connection between logotherapy and pastoral counseling bringing psychology and theology together to effectively counsel the aging the role of logotherapy in the treatment of adult major depression aspects of meaning and personhood in dementia the search for meaning in long term care settings Viktor Frankl's Contribution to Spirituality and Aging represents varying professional perspectives on the application of Frankl's logotherapy for ministry with older adults. The chapter authors represent diverse professional backgrounds in medicine, pastoral theology, the behavioral sciences, and pastoral ministry. They address issues such as death and dying, dementia, and depression, and the spiritual meaning of aging, as well as Frankl's conception of the nature of humanity. Everyone interested in the connection between theology and psychology in the context of the aging will want to own this book.

Aging, Spirituality and Palliative Care Elizabeth MacKinlay, 2006. The period of time when a person approaches death is always difficult both for the patient and the caregiver. Aging, Spirituality and Palliative Care discusses best practices in aged and palliative care while addressing patients' diverse spiritual needs. Leading authorities' presentations from the Third International Conference on Ageing and Spirituality in Adelaide, Australia, in 2004, explore practical, sensitive spiritual approaches to help older patients deal with aging, illness, and approaching death. Each chapter is carefully referenced, and many include tables and figures that enhance understanding of research data.

New Directions in the Study of Late Life Religiousness and Spirituality Susan H. McFadden, Mark Brennan, 2014-05-01. Examine the questions of how, what, and why associated with religiousness and spirituality in the lives of older adults. New Directions in the Study of Late Life Religiousness and Spirituality explores new ways of thinking about a topic that was once taboo but that has now attracted considerable attention from the gerontological community. It examines various approaches to methodology and definition that are used in the study of religion, spirituality, and aging. In addition, it explores the ways that gerontological research can highlight the role of religion and spirituality in the lives of older adults. The first section will introduce you to new ways of thinking about research methodology and data analysis that can be applied to studying the complexity of older adults' religious, spiritual practice, and beliefs. You'll learn several approaches to the study of phenomena that are both personal and also deeply embedded in community. The second section addresses issues of definition, exploring important questions that call for critical reflection, such as: What are we studying? What social and psychological influences shape our thinking about definition? Do the definitions used by gerontologists match those held by older people? The final section moves the study of religion, spirituality, and aging beyond a focus on health and mortality to examine well-being more broadly in the context of the life experiences of older adults. Here is a small sample of what you'll learn about in New Directions in the Study of Late Life Religiousness and Spirituality: structural equation modeling, a statistical method designed to capture the dynamics inherent in the passage of time; feminist qualitative methods for studying spiritual resiliency in older women; spirituality as a public health issue; the differences between groups of older people in the way they define religion and spirituality; the psychosocial implications of two types of religious orientation; dwelling and seeking; older women's responses to the experience of widowhood; and to the question of whether their religious beliefs were affected by the experience; how social context influences our decisions and our interpretations of people's religious beliefs, behaviors, and experiences; the ways that people caring for a spouse with dementia rely on religious coping; a model that delineates three different ways people relate to God in coping and a study that asks whether these types of coping produce different outcomes for caregivers how people adjust to bereavement as a function of their beliefs about an afterlife
