Branfill-Cook, 2014-08-15 The torpedo was the greatest single game changer in the history of naval warfare For the first time it allowed a small cheap torpedo firing vessel and by extension a small minor navy to threaten the largest and most powerful warships afloat The traditional concept of seapower based on huge fleets of expensive capital ships required radical rethinking because of this important naval weapon This book is a broadranging international history of the weapon tracing not only its origins and technical progress down to the present day but also its massive impact on all subsequent naval wars Torpedo contains much new technical information that has come to light over the past thirty years and covers all of the improved capabilities of the weapon Heavily illustrated with photos and technical drawings this is a book no enthusiast or historian can afford to miss

Seas Contested is an in depth analysis of the Second World War's seven major navies. A team of expert naval historians have contributed chapters outlining the navies of the United States, the United Kingdom and Commonwealth, Japan, Germany, Italy, France and the Soviet Union. Each chapter consistently details key features such as weaponry, training, logistics and doctrine. This definitive work will be a standard reference for years to come. The Fortnightly Review, 1919 The Fortnightly, 1919 The Maritime Blockade of Germany in the Great War John D. Grainger, 2020-11-26 The Tenth Cruiser Squadron of the Grand Fleet had the task of patrolling the seas between Scotland and Greenland to intercept enemy ships trying to escape into the ocean and merchant ships who could be carrying goods destined for Germany. This was a task of great political sensitivity since almost all the ships intercepted were neutrals and requiring great physical endurance from ships and men in the violent North Atlantic. The Maritime Blockade of Germany in the Great War is a comprehensive collection of the records of the Northern Patrol. It consists of regular reports of the admirals in command to which are added other relevant official records and more informal documents. There are the chatty letters of Captain Vivian and HMS Patia, the appalling experiences of young officers placed in barely seaworthy sailing ships to see that they went into port for examination, the pathetic mutiny by a bored, distressed and underpaid black gang, the diary of Able Seaman Style demonstrating the tedium of the patrol and the self-satisfied diary of Dr Shaw. There are also the casualties: ships overwhelmed by storms, sunk by enemy action, torpedoed. The ships of the Patrol were perhaps the most constantly active Royal Navy vessels in the Great War, a barely acknowledged yet vital component in the eventual Allied victory. The Bookseller, 1979 Parliamentary Papers Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons, 1906 Sessional Papers Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons, 1906 Navy Great Britain. Admiralty, 1906 Chambers's Encyclopaedia David Patrick, William Geddie, 1926 British Town Class Cruisers Conrad Waters, 2019-11-18 Entering service between 1937 and 1939, the ten British Town class cruisers were the most modern vessels of their type in the Royal Navy when the Second World War began. Built in response to large 6 inch gunned cruisers in the US and Japanese Navies and primarily designed for the defence of trade, they saw arduous service in a wide range of roles, playing a decisive part in victories such as the Battle of the Barents Sea and the destruction of the German Scharnhorst at the North Cape. The cost was heavy: four of the ships were lost and the other six all survived heavy damage, in some cases on more than one occasion. In this major study, Conrad Waters makes extensive use of archive material to provide a technical evaluation of the Town class design and its subsequent performance. He outlines the class's origins in the context of inter-war cruiser policy, explains the design and construction process and describes the characteristics of the resulting ships and how these were adapted in the light of wartime developments. An overview of service focuses on major engagements, assessing the extent to which the class met its designers' expectations and detailing the consequences of action damage. Concluding chapters continue the story into the Cold War era, examining the modernisation programme that kept the remaining ships fit for service during the 1950s. Heavily illustrated.
