Byington, 2024-11-08 The Ego and Its Own is an 1844 work by German philosopher Max Stirner It presents a radically nominalist and individualist critique of on the one hand Christianity nationalism and traditional morality and on the other humanism utilitarianism liberalism and much of the then burgeoning socialist movement advocating instead an amoral although importantly not inherently immoral or antisocial egoism Stirner believed that there was no objective social reality independent of the individual social classes the state the masses and humanity are abstractions and therefore need not be considered seriously He wrote of a finite empirical ego which he saw as the motive force of every human action Writing chiefly for working class readers he taught that all persons are capable of the self awareness that would make them egoists or true individuals Max Stirner in his book The Ego and His Own 1845 recommended instead of social reform a ruthless individualism that should seek satisfaction by any means and at whatever risk A small group of other individualists

Trainor,2019-06-27 Does the New Testament teach that a wife must submit to her husband as head If so does it have a lasting value beyond the cultural milieu in which it was first articulated The Politics of Conjugal Love takes a fresh approach to this classic issue in theological anthropology paying specific attention to the role of theological hermeneutics in its interpretation Conor Sweeney and Brian T Trainor contend that both subordinationist and anti subordinationist readings of headship and submission miss the mark Their alternative is a baptismally specified trinitarian reading in which headship and submission appear as modes intrinsic to both life in Christ and the love proper to the highest mode of trinitarian love
