Management of Medical Technology Eliezer Geisler, Ori Heller, 2012-12-06 This is the second book in the series of books that we edit on the Management of Medical Technology MMT published by Kluwer Academic Publishers The first book Managing Technology in Health Care offered a broad brushed view of the topics involved in the new and exciting area of MMT that we have launched A group of distinguished scholars contributed to the first book While working on the first book in the series and on a variety of articles in MMT we began to realize that there is an urgent need for a comprehensive and highly focused book which will introduce and define the area of MMT In addition we had just completed the two studies of MMT in American hospitals and had a magnificent database fully analyzed With three months left in the first author's sabbatical and thanks to the encouragement from our editor at Kluwer Gary Folven we took to the task of writing this book The merging in this book of the description of a new intellectual space and the write up of the results from our MMT studies have created a unique blend of very attractive reading material The reader will find this book to be a fascinating adventure

The gap between a rising demand for health care services on the one side and scarce resources on the other is leading to a growing pressure on decision making processes. Hence, prioritization in medicine has become an increasingly important issue for assuring stability of health systems and improving the capability of health care. The present volume addresses normative dimensions of methodological and theoretical approaches, the legal basis behind priority setting as well as international experiences concerning the normative framework and the process of priority setting. It also examines specific criteria for prioritization and discusses economic evaluations. Contributing authors from a broad range of scientific disciplines discuss prioritization within an international dialogue. Adopting New Medical Technology Institute of Medicine, Committee on Technological Innovation in Medicine, 1994-02-01 What information and decision making processes determine how and whether an experimental medical technology becomes accepted and used? Adopting New Medical Technology reviews the strengths and weaknesses of present coverage and adoption practices, highlights opportunities for improving both the decision making processes and the underlying information base, and considers approaches to instituting a much needed increase in financial support for evaluative research. Essays explore the nature of technological change, the use of technology assessment in decisions by health care providers and federal for-profit and not-for-profit payers, the role of the courts in determining benefits coverage, strengthening the connections between evaluative research and coverage decision making, manufacturers' responses to the increased demand for outcomes research, and the implications of health care reform for technology policy.
