Financial management theory

The constituents of an effective financial management process

An effective financial management system consists of essential elements such as accounting records and source, financial reporting, documentation, budget control, allowable costs, compliance, and cash management. For example, financial reporting is related to current, accurate, and complete disclosure of financial results, which must be done as per the financial reporting requirements. Regarding internal controls, the managers must maintain effective controls and accountability.

The examples of financial reports

The following are the four financial records I am responsible for:

- Cash flow: Cash flow is a stream of expense and revenue, which changes a cash account during a particular period. The source documents include bank statements, receipts, and payment vouchers.
- Ledgers: A ledger is a summary of financial information that is categorized by allocation to certain account numbers through a chart of accounts. An example of a source document is a sales receipt.
- Invoices: An invoice is a statement delivered by services or product's provider, the purchaser, reminding the purchaser to pay – it leads to the formation of accounts receivable. An example of a source document is a check.
- Profit and loss: A profit and loss statement is a financial statement that contains the expenses, costs, and revenues for a particular period. The statement aims to offer the ability of an entity to make profits by reducing costs and increasing revenues. Examples of source documents include sales invoices and bill vouchers.
