The Training of Radiologic Administrators James G. Kereiakes, Richard J. Van Tuinen, 1972 The Publishers' Trade List Annual, 1977 Catalog of Training National Conservation Training Center (U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service), 2006 Systematic Approach to Training for Nuclear Facility Personnel: Processes, Methodology and Practices IAEA, 2021-05-18 Training is an important tool to achieve and maintain the required competence of personnel working in nuclear facilities Effective training and qualification of personnel are necessary for the achievement of high safety and efficiency standards in nuclear facility performance Training and qualification combined is a key feature of the integrated management systems of nuclear facilities

It is these considerations that led to this publication which consolidates the experience gained worldwide using the systematic approach to training SAT for nuclear facility personnel. It provides a basis for establishing and sustaining the quality and reliability of training and qualification for all main categories of nuclear facility personnel. SAT has proved its effectiveness in nuclear and other safety critical industries over decades and is recognized as the best international practice in nuclear training. The publication details the processes and methodology, presents good practices and offers recommendations from the experts in the field on the entire set of activities within the SAT based training methodology and provides examples of SAT application. It builds on and supersedes guidance provided in an earlier IAEA publication Technical Report Series 380 Nuclear Power Plant Personnel Training and its Evaluation A Guidebook. A key feature of this publication is demonstrating how SAT based training serves as one of the important processes in a nuclear facility management system and how it integrates with other processes.

Understanding Penal Practice Ioan Durnescu, Fergus McNeill, 2013-10-30 Criminological and penological scholarship has in recent years explored how and why institutions and systems of punishment change and how and why these changes differ in different contexts. Important though these analyses are, this book focuses not so much on the changing nature of institutions and systems but rather the changing nature of penal practice and practitioners. Bringing together leading researchers from around the world, this collection unites studies that aim to describe and critically analyse penal practice with studies that investigate its effectiveness and prescribe its future development. Reversing penology's usual preoccupation with the prison, the book focuses mainly on penal practice in the community, i.e. on probation, parole, offender supervision and community corrections. The first part of the book focuses on understanding practice and practitioners, exploring how changing social, cultural, political and organisational contexts influence practice and how training, development, professional socialisation and other factors influence practitioners. The second part is concerned with how practitioners can be best supported to develop the skills and approaches that seem most likely to generate positive impacts. It contains accounts of new practice models and approaches as well as reports of research projects seeking both to discover and to encourage effective practices. This book explores internationally significant and cutting edge theoretical and empirical work on the cultures, practices, roles and impacts of frontline practitioners in delivering penal sanctions. As such, it will be of interest to researchers in criminology, social work and social policy as well as correctional policy makers and those involved in community supervision.
